CARNAVANAGHAN, ARMAGH.
FOR SALE.

THAT very valuable Freehold Farm, with the excellent Two-storey Dwellinghouse and extensive Office Houses thereon, all stone built and slated, containing 28 acres, statute measure, or thereabouts, situate about three miles from the City of Armagh, adjacent to the leading road from Armagh to Market Hill, held subject to the half-yearly annuity of £5 4/- to the Irish Land Commission. The lands are rich and fertile, well fenced and drained; easily worked, and well watered. There is a spring well and an never-failing supply of water. The lands are situate in a nice locality in a peaceable district, convenient to church and school. The Dwellinghouse is large and the Office Houses extensive and commodious, all approached by an avenue from the county road, the whole forming one of the nicest and most desirable properties to be had, and which can, with confidence, be recommended. Further particulars will be given and offers received by JOHN W. SIMPSON, Solicitor for the Vendor, Armagh.

THE FIT MAN WINS!

This is true in every walk of life. The triumph of physical fitness is apparent everywhere. In the great World of Business and in the Realms of Recreation and Sport success comes to the one who is physically fit. More than ever in the history of the race this great quality counts to-day. Physical fitness—which also carries with it mental alertness and general all-round efficiency—is greatly to be desired. Everybody would like to be fit; everybody, too, needs to be fit, if success is to be won and satisfaction achieved. Life is so much more worth living if it is accompanied by vigorous health. Physical fitness depends more upon the efficient working of the process of digestion than upon anything else. A sound digestion is really at the root of the matter. Any means, therefore, likely to strengthen or maintain this important function is to be heartily welcomed. Beecham's Pills long ago won golden opinions for their splendid work in keeping health right by maintaining a sound and healthy digestive system. They have proved to be an ideal medicine and one which always does good. Although wonderfully efficacious as an aperient, a tonic, and blood-purifying preparation they are perfectly harmless, and are suitable to either sex, young or old. Thousands of busy men and women owe their fitness to

A Sextoblade Saves on every Shave

Six Good Blades—one for every morning in the work-a-day-week—and a better-than-the-Barber-shave every time. That's the Sextoblade—the time-saver—the labour-saver—the worry-saver—the money-saver. It simply glides over the face—the most stubborn growth is no obstacle—and the result is a smooth, easy shave without the pull or grip that so often makes shaving a "swearing" for the man with a tender skin.

The Sextoblade razor combines the action of the hollow ground with the immunity of the safety, an ideal arrangement for every self-shaver.

Since its introduction into Ireland hundreds of busy men have adopted the Sextoblade. One and all declare it to be "just the razor I've being longing for."

DUBLIN AND DISTRICT.

POULTRY EXPORT TRADE DIFFICULTIES.—The continuance of the strike affecting the cargo steamers of the London and North-Western Company between Dublin and Holyhead is having a most injurious effect upon the extensive trade in the shipments of live and dead poultry from the Liffey to the Anglesey port, whence the birds are railed to almost all parts of Great Britain. The short sea route was of the utmost importance to breeders and exporters of poultry, but at present longer journeys across the Channel have to be borne by live birds imprisoned in flat crates.

RAID FOR ARMS IN BRAY.—The house of Major Maunsell, Galtrim road, Bray, was raided on Saturday by armed men, who wore no disguise or masks. They asked for arms and ammunition, but there were none in the house. Two swords were taken. Major Maunsell, Mrs. Maunsell, and their daughter were at home when the men entered, and they described them as being courteous in their manner to them. Major Maunsell's house is only a few doors from the house of the local district inspector of the Bray Constabulary.

DUBLIN'S NEW SHIPBUILDING INDUSTRY.—At the new and extensive yards of the Dublin Shipbuilders, Ltd., the framework of a new steamer has been erected, and work is steadily proceeding towards the completion of this vessel. The new yards are fortunate in their situation, as the "mouth" of the Alexandra Basin is opposite the building "slips," and consequently ample launching way for even the largest craft will be at all times available. Large workshops, offices, etc., have been built at these new shipbuilding yards, which are reached by a newly laid down road.

STRIKE SCENE IN SACKVILLE STREET.—In the Northern Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Lupton, a young man named Edward Tucker, described as a member of the Brush Workers' Society, was remanded on bail on a charge of having, on Saturday last, intimidated Richard Sheppard, of 23 Sandford road, Ranelagh, by endeavouring to compel him to abstain from purchasing a brush at the shop of Messrs. Varian, Talbot street, where a strike was in progress. It was alleged that the accused and others followed Mr. Sheppard into Sackville street, and such a scene ensued that he had to leave a tramcar in which he intended to proceed home. Mr. J. W. Davis prosecuted.

BURGLARIES AT KINGSTOWN.—Two burglaries took place in Kingstown on Saturday and Sunday. Messrs. E. Browett and Sons, fruiterer's shop, 7 Upper George's street, was broken into and the safe forced. There was no cash in it, and beyond some fruit and chocolate which the thieves ate in the shop, nothing has been missed. The burglars seem first to have tried the front door, and then effected an entry at the back of the premises. Messrs. MacDonald Bros., Lower George's street, Kingstown, was burglariously entered, and a small quantity of cutlery, etc., stolen. The safe was broken open, but contained no cash. This house was burgled some short time ago, when £2 were abstracted from the till. On that occasion an attempt to break open the safe was made without success.

N.S.P.C.C. AND CHILD NEGLECT.

The National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children investigated 2,834 complaints of neglect and cruelty in England, Wales, and Ireland during the month of August. Of the 2,790 cases completed, 2,694 were found true, affecting the welfare of 7,108 children and involving 3,606 offenders. Warnings were issued in 2,460 cases; 62 were prosecuted (resulting in 61 convictions), and 172 were dealt with by transfer or in other ways. From its foundation in 1884, the Society has dealt with 1,073,959 complaints, involving 3,014,946 children. In the Dublin and District Branch during the same month 70 cases were dealt with, affecting 166 children.

IRISH WILLS.

Mr. James Martin.

Mr. James Martin, of Mountpleasant avenue, Ballinasloe, Co. Galway, land surveyor, who died 23rd November, 1919, left personal estate in the United Kingdom valued at £7,131 5/4, of which £3,960 16/9 is in England. Probate of his will, dated 20th February, 1907, with a codicil of the 10th May, 1909, has been granted to Mr. Hutchinson Davidson, solicitor, and Mr. James Martin, junior, automobile engineer, both of Ballinasloe. The testator left his property to his wife absolutely.

Very Rev. Canon Quigley.

Very Rev. James Canon Quigley, of Castlebridge, Co. Wexford, formerly of the House of Missions, Enniscorthy, a close personal friend of the late Mr. John E. Redmond, left personal estate in the United Kingdom valued at £2,160 9/3, of which £97 1/5 is in England. Probate of his will, dated 1st August, 1902, has been granted to his brother, the Rev. John Quigley, of Tagoat, Co. Wexford. The testator left £100 for charitable purposes in the Parish of Bree; £50 for the House of Missions, Enniscorthy, for the education of priests; £10 for the celebration of Masses, and the residue of the property to his nieces, the daughters of James Kelly.

Apologies for non-attendance were received from Sir William Fry, D.L., J.P., Chairman, and Sir George Roche.

The proceedings of the last meeting of the Committee, and also that of the Visiting and Finance Committees were read, confirmed, and signed. On the recommendation of the Finance Committee cheques amounting to £1,064 5s. 2d. were signed in payment of monthly accounts, leaving a sum of £9,323 9/4 due to the bank.

The Committee accepted tenders from the following firms for supplies to the hospital, viz.—Messrs. Johnston, Mooney and O'Brien, Ltd., bread; Mr. John Rafter, pure new milk; Mr. M. J. M'Cabe, fish and chickens; Messrs. R. and A. Barrett, chandlery.

Mr. William Perrin, Vice-Chairman, in accordance with notice, moved:—"That Mr. Edward Lee, J.P., be co-opted a member of the Managing Committee of the hospital in place of the late Mr. Francis Bewley."

Mr. A. G. Hollinshead, J.P., Hon. Treasurer, seconded the proposition, which was put to the meeting and passed unanimously.

A letter was read from Mr. John S. Russell resigning membership of the Finance Committee in consequence of his inability to attend the meetings. Resignation accepted with regret.

Mr. Edward Lee, J.P., and Mr. Archibald Robinson, J.P., were co-opted members of the Finance Committee to fill the vacancies created by the death of the late Mr. Francis Bewley and the resignation of Mr. John S. Russell.

Read book: "Remarks by Visiting Governors," which contained the following:—"I have visited the hospital the last two months, and have always found everything in perfect order, and the patients exceedingly well cared for and kindly treated. August 14th, 1920.—(Miss) B. M. Winslow."

The Report Books of the Lady Superintendent and the Resident Medical Officer were read and approved of. Patients in the hospital this day, 205, viz.—92 males, 113 females.

The Committee tender their grateful thanks for the following kind contributions received since last meeting:—£14 6/7 from John D. Wallis, Esq. Hollinshead, Esq., J.P., Hon. Treasurer, The Haven, Palmerston Gardens, Rathmines; or by the Registrar at the Hospital.

MEETING OF TOWN TENANTS' LEAGUE.

Mr. P. J. Carolin presided on Thursday evening at a meeting of the Central Branch of the All Ireland Town Tenants' League, held in the offices of the League, 43 Rutland square, Dublin. There was a large attendance, tenants being present from almost every part of Dublin city and county in reference to cases of rent raising under the new Act and other cases of hardship. In almost every case the notices served on the tenants were declared invalid, and the landlords will be communicated with in view of amicable settlements being arranged. A large number of cases were reported as having been amicably settled during the past week and agreeing to accept the fair rents fixed, and, in other cases, to leave the matter in dispute to the Committee to fix fair rents. This Committee met subsequently, when several cases were amicably settled.

SPORTING NEWS.

CURRAGH MEETING—THIS DAY.

The September Meeting at headquarters, which opens to-day, will provide good-class sport, the programme containing several important events, including the Irish St. Leger, which figures on to-morrow's card. The going is in capital order, so that fair-sized fields should be seen out for most of the races. The chief event to-day, the Anglesey Stakes, however, will not attract many runners to the post, and it may be won by Russian Sable. Selections are appended:—

Scurry Plate—Organa.
Loughbrown Plate—Glannagalt or Clara B.
Anglesey Stakes—Russian Sable.
Curragh Plate—Wavy Stripe; if absent, Gallant Spearman.
Brownstown Plate—Llangarren.
Kildare Plate—Swimmer or Martinique.

TRAIN ARRANGEMENTS.

Auxiliary trains leave Kingsbridge each morning at 11.20, 11.45, and 12.15, returning at 4.20, 4.35, and 4.45.

LONDON BETTING—YESTERDAY.

In yesterday's wagering a lot of money went on Holbeach for the Cesarewitch at 1,000 to 90, he being backed to win £12,000, but the rate was still on offer at the close. Bracket was quiet at the same price. Blue Dunn, after being well supported at 1,000 to 90, went out to 100 to 6 before returning to 100 to 7. It remains to be seen whether she runs or not, the probability being that she will. Others were backed as follows:—

THE CESAREWITCH.
(Run on October 13th. 2¼ miles.)

100 to 9 Holbeach, 4, 6-8 (t. and o.).
100 to 9 Bracket, 3, 7-5 (t. and o.).
100 to 7 Blue Dn, 5, 7-13 (t. and o.).
20 to 1 Spearwort, 3, 7-3 (offered, after 25 to 1 taken).
100 to 3 Phantom Bold, 4, 7-5 (t. and o.).
100 to 3 Golden Guinea, 3, 7-9 (t. and o.).
100 to 3 Front Line, 4, 7-0 (t. and o.).
40 to 1 Furore, a, 8-4 (t. and o.).
50 to 1 Miss Madcap (t. and o.).
50 to 1 One, a, 7-0 (t. and o.).
50 to 1 Capital, a, 6-10 (t. and o.).

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

Mr. J. Mallick has sold the three-year-old, Anna B., to Mr. F. S. Myerscough.

It is stated that ten of Mr. J. B. Joel's yearlings are about to join H. Cottrill's string.

S. Donoghue has ridden 105 winners to date out of 468 mounts, which yields an average of 22.64, and he holds a long lead of his nearest rivals, F. Bullock (67) and B. Carslake (57); but the latter boasts the better average—viz., 24.78.

Mataro, who was sold to Mr. W. M. Mills for 250 guineas after winning a selling race at Warwick a week ago, prior to his sale enjoyed the distinction of being the most numerously owned horse in England, no fewer than ten partners having each a one-tenth share in him.

Polymelus heads the list of winning sires to date, his stock having this season won in stakes £31,427. Sunstar (£26,118) and The Tetrarch (£22,200) are second and third respectively; whilst Bachelor's Double (£12,659) and Charles O'Malley (£12,418) are also high up in the table.

BELFAST DISTRESS FUND.

In addition to the sum of £1,400 contributed by the members of the Irish Ring to the Belfast Distress Fund, the other branches of the racing community will figure prominently in the list of subscribers. At Baldoyle on September 11 Messrs. M. Arnott and J. J. Parkinson collected £250, and at Phoenix Park on Saturday subscriptions amounting to £170 were noted. It is intended to close the sportsmen's list this week, and those who have promised donations are requested to hand them to the collectors at the Curragh Meeting.

HUNTING.

THE LOUTH HOUNDS.

These hounds will cub hunt—Friday, September 24th, Rokeby Hall, at 8 o'clock; Wednesday, September 29th, Hilltown, at 7 o'clock.

LEICESTER MEETING, YESTERDAY.

With an attractive programme, and the weather of a perfect autumnal description, it was not surprising that the attendance at Leicester yesterday was a large one. Fields were quite in keeping with the entries, and the Oadby Handicap attracted a good class of competitors, all but two of the 14 on the card going to the post. In a good betting race Old Bill had the call of Charley's Uncle and Periosteum; and, after Charley's Uncle had made the running to the distance, Periosteum drew out, and, resisting a vigorous challenge by Tomatina, won by half a length. Old Bill was never really prominent, finishing sixth. Backers started badly by laying odds on Inkersall for the Maiden Plate, where Lorna Doon, second in demand, scored cleverly by a head from Panache, which made most of the running; but they got their losses back on Sphere of Influence colt for the Rancliffe Plate. Rolling Home made most of the running, but the extra furlong was too much for him. Short heads only separated the first five in the Gopsall Selling Plate, and many thought Waveline, officially placed fourth, had won, but the judge alone could really tell. The Glen Clova filly followed up her recent success in the Midland Nursery, leading from start to finish; and the Melton Welter fell to the favourite, La Hogue. Details:—

THE DAVIS CUP.
AMERICA v. AUSTRALIA.

A Melbourne telegram, dated Monday, states:—The American lawn tennis team is to meet the Australian team for the Davis Cup at Auckland (New Zealand) on December 28, 29, and 31 next, and will play a series of matches in Australia against the representatives of the State teams, playing at Melbourne on January 13th, and Sydney on January 27th next.

J. C. PARKE WINS KENT COAST CHAMPIONSHIP.

Heavy rain was falling when the Kent Coast Championships were resumed at Hythe on Saturday. By half-past three the courts were flooded, and play was abandoned. Before this, however, the finals of the men's and ladies' singles were decided. In the final of the men's singles J. C. Parke defeated B. J. C. Norton by 8-6, 6-1, and, partnered by T. M. Mavrogordato, Parke divided the men's open doubles with B. J. C. Norton and A. L. Godfree.

BILLIARDS.

SMITH v. FALKINER.

When the second week's play of this 16,000 up match between Smith and Falkiner (the latter with 500 start) was entered on at Newcastle yesterday, Smith was 400 in front, and at the interval led by over 600. He raised his unfinished 142 to 254, and had other good runs of 116 and 72. Falkiner's tebs were 58, 88, 165. Interval scores:—Smith, 8,667; Falkiner, 7,982.

At night Falkiner was in fine form. He had the best break in the match so far, 381, and also 116 and 309. Smith raised 11 (unfinished) to 113, and his other breaks of note were 87 (twice), 71, 126, and 73 (unfinished). Closing scores:—Smith, 9,333; Falkiner, 9,009.

SWIMMING.

DUBLIN.—Ladies' Branch.—Result of 50 yards' handicap, held in the Blackrock Baths on Friday last, for prize presented by Miss K. Byrne:—Miss D. Goodbody (23), 1st; Miss J. Goodbody (25), 2nd; Miss M. Searight (15), 3rd. Twelve competed. Time, 48 seconds.

CLONTARF.—This evening 100 yards club championship (junior), age limit 17, for the Freeman Cup, at 6.45, and the 100 yards club championship (senior) for the Adams Cup at 7.

BOXING.

LIGHT-WEIGHT BELT CHAMPIONSHIP.

The light-weight belt competition, which has been in progress at the Ring, Blackfriars, London, for the past fortnight, reached its semi-final stage last night, when the four boxers left in were the Welshmen, Tommy Phillips and Jack Josephs, and the Englishmen, Seaman Alf. Smith and Ernie Rice, brother of Bandsman Rice. It was generally expected on the form that the two Welshmen would meet in the final, but the first of the semi-finals furnished a distinct surprise, for Tommy Phillips, of Neath, was beaten by Ernie Rice (Hounslow) in the sixth of the ten rounds contest. Jack Josephs (Pontypridd) beat Seaman Smith (Harwich) on points, after a keen and hard ten rounds, in which his greater experience proved a valuable asset.

THE EASTBOURNE MURDER.

EVIDENCE AT THE RESUMED INQUEST.

Some remarkable evidence was given last evening at the resumed inquest at Eastbourne on Irene Munro, a typist, who was murdered at Crumbles on August 19.

Several witnesses stated that they had seen the deceased walking towards Crumbles that afternoon with two men, one of whom two witnesses identified as Field, one of the two men in custody.

Chief Inspector Mercer, Scotland Yard, read statements made and signed by Field and Gray detailing their movements on August 19. Both stated that they were at Pevensey Bay that afternoon, and there met lady friends, with whom they walked home, without crossing Crumbles.

A servant in Eastbourne gave evidence, denying having been with Field and Gray on August 19th.

Another witness was the man now undergoing sentence in Maidstone Prison for the theft of a passport. Detailed a conversation the accused man Gray had with him while exercising in prison. He said that Gray asked him if he would say that he was at the Circus on August 19, and that he saw the sailor who had given evidence in the case go across Crumbles with a girl, and afterwards return alone, or alternatively to say that he was on Crumbles blackberrying, and saw the sailor struggling with a girl, and afterwards returning by himself. Witness refused. Witness said that he was not at the Circus, and had never seen Gray before he saw him in prison. He made this statement voluntarily.

The inquiry was adjourned.

To compete with the London County Council Tramways, the London General Omnibus Company are instituting twopenny mid-day fares on week-days, excepting Saturday, on tram routes.

THE ALLEGED RACING FRAUD.

THE FIFTH CHARGE.

"SHINING MORE" AND "SILVER BADGE."

The fifth and concluding charge in the Turf conspiracy case was heard before Mr. Justice Greer at the Old Bailey, London, yesterday, when Peter Christian Barrie was charged with Cyril Sharwood Lawley, motor engineer, Hampstead; Norman Weisz, pearl merchant, London, and Samuel Berg, trainer, Epsom, with conspiring to obtain stake money and money in bets in connection with the substitution of Shining More for Silver Badge in the Malvern Selling Hurdle Race at Cheltenham on December 29th last. Barrie pleaded guilty; the others not guilty.

Mr. Gill, K.C., for the prosecution, said that Silver Badge was purely an imaginary horse which never existed, and the race was won by Shining More running in its name. Lawley entered the horse. It was from Berg's stable that Shining More came, while Weisz arranged the backing. It was absolutely vital, said counsel, that the horse should be bought in, and Weisz was also the man to do that. He was a man of considerable means, well able to carry out his part, because it would be necessary that a man could bet on credit, be in touch with bookmakers, and be able to back horses for a considerable amount either by telephone or by direct communication. Counsel read a letter from Lawley to Messrs. Weatherby, agents to the Jockey Club, stating that he had purchased a bay mare at a sale of Army remounts at Bristol, and asking for it to be entered for the Malvern Selling Hurdle at Cheltenham. It was a very innocent letter and perfectly straightforward, and as it came from the Silver Badge Motor Works the suggestion to have an alleged remount named Silver Badge was explained. Counsel suggested that Weisz was a man of means, and that if he took part in the fraud could only have lent himself for the purpose of making a few thousand pounds by dishonest means. It was necessary to have a good horse. Shining More was bought by Barrie on September 6th. It actually won a race on November 10 on the very same course at Cheltenham. On November 21 it ran second in a field of ten at Cardiff, and on the 23rd was second again at Folkestone. At a meeting at which Silver Badge was running Weisz had a horse entered in the name of Mr. Norman, and in the very next race Shining More itself was entered as the property of Mrs. Barrie. Counsel next described the clever way in which Shining More was disguised to appear like the supposed Silver Badge. The latter was entered as a brown mare, so Shining More, which was a bay, was only turned into brown by being covered with dope. The blaze on her forehead and her white hind fetlock were similarly obliterated. Hulme, the well-known jockey, was engaged to ride her, and she won easily. The fraud was successful, but, said counsel, then came the serious question of buying the horse, to prevent it being discovered. For this unknown mare bidding was very brisk, and it fell to Weisz, as Mr. Norman. The case for the prosecution was that Weisz was merely acting a part, and bought in the mare for those engaged in the fraud. Weisz's explanation was that he was a dupe, but the others all put forward the same explanation. Soon after the race he was making over all his horses to a lady, and counsel suggested that this was to conceal the fraud and alleviate the great anxiety from which he was suffering. Silver Badge dropped out of existence, and the winning mare, after being washed with petrol, became Shining More again. It was found very difficult to get the animal back to its original colour, and ether stuff was brought in bottles to assist the petrol. Four or five bets had been traced to Weisz, one during the past few days, and he had won a little over £3,000 as a result of backing this unknown horse.

William Shrimpton, representative of Messrs. Weatherby, described the entry of Silver Badge by Lawley, and, in answer to the later's counsel, said that Lawley seemed inexperienced of racing matters when he came to fill up the form.

Mr. Pane, agent for the Cheltenham stakeholders, said that from the beginning of this year racing under an assumed name was not permitted.

Evidence was also given that there was no sale of Army remounts on March 18 at Bristol, and that at no sale there was Lawley a purchaser.

John Collier, clerk to Messrs. Weatherby, said that Shining More was bought by Barrie for 540 guineas on the 6th December.

The hearing was adjourned.

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS.

GAIETY THEATRE.

"Daddalums" is the affectionate name given by a College-educated son to his self-made father, an honest, but obstinate, craftsman of a disappearing school, who takes the side of the old in the war with the new. The foreman of his boot factory takes the other side, and the daughter, whilst the son is led into the paths of ruin and disgrace. This young man aspires to the hand of a banker's daughter, and breaks the heart of the only child of his father's life-long friend. However, an inherent trait of honour and honesty reasserts itself, the father's good name is saved, there are family reunions, blessed by grandchildren, and the dishonest and corrupt get their just rewards. The play abounds in tense situations, both lachrymose and bellicose, to which the principals did full justice. The conversations are apt to be overlong, and sometimes academic, but they are frequently relieved by nice examples of pawky Scots humour, contributed largely by Fergus McLarnie, the life-long friend, a part taken by Mr. Victor Lusk. Mr. Wallace Craigie, "Daddalums," was a well-drawn character, effectively played by Mr. William Calvert, and Thomas the son, by Mr. Stanley H. Lloyd. Jeannie, the self-effacing daughter, was a difficult rôle, in which Miss Gwendoline Hay appeared to advantage, although the love scene with Donald Graham, her father's foreman, was rather unconvincing. Rose McLarnie (Miss Dorothy Carr), Spencer Hutton, the bank manager; Mr. Arthur Eawtree, and Miss Rita Everard, as Harriet, the last-named's daughter, made the most of their opportunities, and Vaughan Leland, a defaulting stockbroker (Mr. Arnold Kidd), and Carter, "Daddalums'" confidential man (Mr. E. F. Saxon), were good in their respective parts. Miss Beatrice Bell, as Ellen, a slatternly maid, was capital. The scenes are laid in Northampton; time, the present; the majority of the characters being Scots in both fact and fancy. It was a full audience which fully appreciated the play and the players.

THE THEATRE ROYAL.

An entirely novel entertainment was presented last evening at the Theatre Royal by J. L. Davies and Alfred Zeitlin. It is appropriately called "The Mixture," and it would not be easy to classify it amongst stage productions. The Mixture is a good one, taken as a whole. It comprises thirteen scenes, all strung together and produced in rapid succession, leaving not a dull moment from start to finish. There are good vocalists, dainty dancers, admirable comedians, and versatile artists in the caste. The scene in which the reading of the will takes place is a funny piece of work, and the Lancashire drama is most amusing. Miss Renee Reel's singing of "When Flossie found her first grey hair" was received with much favour. The piece is excellently staged, and is certain to be the attraction of the week. Miss Abbie Mitchell sang two pleasing songs from her repertoire, and secured the applause of the house. Miss Mitchell was ably assisted by her own conductor, Will Marion Cook. Other "turns" were supplied by Hart and Hall, Harry La Vail and Sister, Will Cummin and Partner, Sammy Shields, comedian, and the Mizuno troupe of acrobats.

THE QUEEN'S THEATRE.

H. J. Condron's company presented the well-known Irish drama, "Arrah-na-Pogue," in the Queen's Theatre last evening, crowded "houses" at both performances giving the piece a good reception. The play is produced in nine scenes, all of which are excellently staged, the acting also being of an excellent character, the familiar story being unfolded in a manner that won the appreciation of all present. The cast is a strong one, and it would be invidious to single out any particular name for special mention. Suffice it to say that one and all contributed to the success of the performance. The principal rôles were filled by Miss May Murnane, Miss May Fitzpatrick, Messrs. P. J. Bourke, Fergus Kelly, Thomas Moran, J. B. Carrickford, Peter MacCormac, H. J. Condron, Richard Carrickford, and Leo Strong.

EMPIRE THEATRE.

A pleasantly varied programme was staged at the Empire Theatre before large audiences last night, the head of the bill being occupied by "The Famous Australians" in their popular success, entitled "Issues," including "The Dud Dream." The sketch is presented under the personal direction of Mr. Harry Anthony, and is of a thoroughly enjoyable character. The other turns include Johnny Quinn, impromptu entertainer, who evoked a hearty measure of applause; Corn and Neal, in a lively speciality act; Anna Heffernan, the popular Dublin soprano; Ben George, a wandering minstrel; and Nellie Stoole, comedienne and dancer.

THE TIVOLI THEATRE.

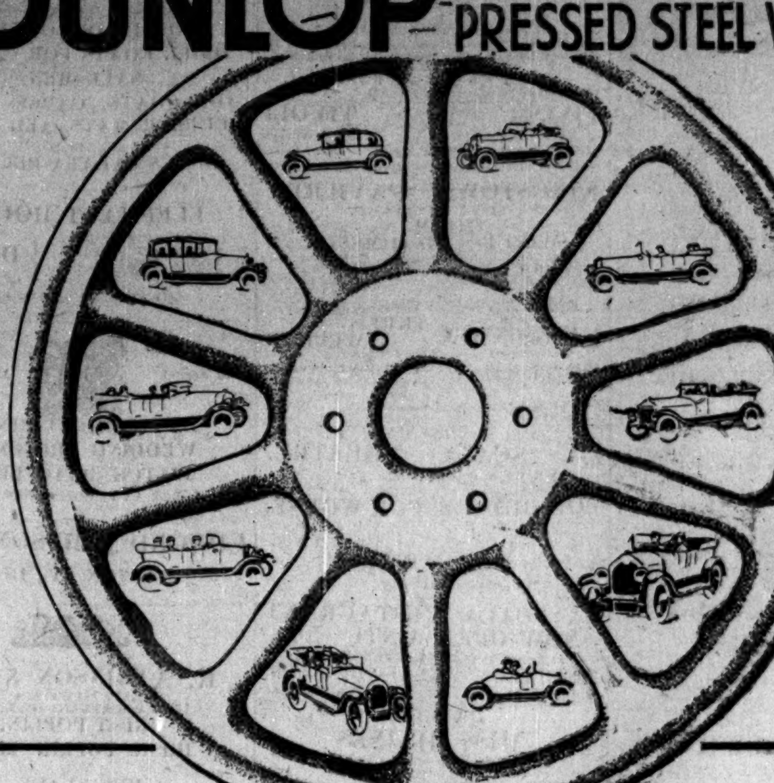

The programme in the Burgh quay house this week is a capital one, and was heartily enjoyed by large audiences at both performances last evening. Eileen and Marjorie, two Australian juvenile entertainers, provided the principal turn. They are a clever pair, who went through a series of acrobatic displays, which elicited warm approbation. Somersaults, cartwheels, and other turns were performed with ease and agility, the younger of the duo imparting much fun to the performance by her antics. Jack Clevoner, who appears in the rôle of a railway porter, supplies concertina contributions, and he does so in a manner that testifies to his ability with this particular instrument. Russell and Durbin justify their title as "whirlwind dancers," and Stella Magni and her partner were responsible for an interesting vocal and instrumental act, in which the flute and piccolo were introduced to much effect. Selby and Myers proved amusing comedians and clever dancers, and Billie Delhi and his partner, in a comedy turn, were very amusing. Maureen O'Reilly, a dainty Dublin dancer, and Pan and Girls, in an acrobatic and dancing novelty, made up the bill of fare.

SERVICES AND ANTHEMS.

Christ Church Cathedral.—Litany of Intercession for Ireland and Holy Communion at 11.30 a.m.

Considerable progress was made yesterday with the Air Ministry's competition for amphibian seaplanes on Martlesham Heath Aerodrome, near Woodbridge. Under perfect conditions, the Vickers-Viking carried out three trials on the water at Felixstowe—namely, "figure of eight" taxing test, half-hour's taxing test, and anchoring and mooring test. The results were quite satisfactory. Her performance was unsatisfactory in the rough weather of Friday last. The Fairey was again put through a three-and-a-half hours' economy and reliability flight.

DUNLOP Detachable PRESSED STEEL WHEELS

For all MEDIUM SIZED CARS.

THE pressed steel wheel has been almost universally adopted by makers of medium sized and light cars. The Dunlop detachable artillery pattern pressed steel wheels are the finest of their type and ensure absolute solidity. The combination of the Dunlop standardised rim guarantees perfect seating and fitting for tyres, and is a safeguard against creeping and its attendant evils. Here is one of the many strong reasons why you should see that your new car is fitted with Dunlop detachable steel wheels. Write the manufacturers to-day.

FIRE IN LISBURN FACTORY.

SPECIAL CONSTABLES CALLED OUT.

On Sunday night a fire occurred at the threadworks of Messrs. William Barbour and Sons, Hilden, about a quarter of a mile from Lisburn, from which considerable numbers of the Roman Catholic workers fled during the recent disturbances. The impression got ahead that reprisals were being resorted to by the Sinn Feiners, and the ringing of the fire alarm, followed by the blowing of a syren, promptly resulted in a mobilisation of the whole force of special constables. They concentrated at a known point, where they received orders, and went with all haste to the positions assigned to them. The major body remained at the call of the "staff officers." Pedestrians found out-of-doors were warned to return home, and soon the special constables were in complete possession of the township, the approaches of which were specially guarded. The men remained at their posts until daybreak.

The flax store, in which the outbreak unaccountably occurred, was completely destroyed, the damage amounting to several thousand pounds. The mill firemen succeeded in holding the flames in check until the arrival of the Belfast Brigade, who quickly subdued them.

CORK MANSION BURNED.

DAMAGE ESTIMATED AT £50,000.

Our Midleton Correspondent telegraphed yesterday:—The fine old historic residence, Castlemary House, three miles from Midleton, standing in the centre of the extensive Castlemary demesne of Colonel Mountifort Longfield, D.L., was burned to the ground last night and completely destroyed, with its contents, comprising most valuable furniture and effects, the loss sustained by the conflagration being estimated at £50,000. Colonel Longfield is from home at present.

COURTMARTIAL IN CORK.

THE POSSESSION OF DOCUMENTS.

At a courtmartial in Cork Barracks yesterday, John Ryan was charged with having at Knockroe, County Tipperary, in his possession (1) documents relating to an armed movement of a military nature, and (2) with doing an act likely to cause disaffection by carrying in his possession documents referring to training in the use of arms.

The accused pleaded guilty, but on the suggestion of the President withdrew the plea.

Two military witnesses gave evidence in support of the charges.

On being asked if he wished to explain where he got the documents, the accused said that he got them from the "Adjutant of Golden Sinn Fein Club" to take to the "Captain of Cashel Sinn Fein Club," and did not know what was in the envelope.

Accused was acquitted on the first charge and convicted on the second.

To the President, he said that he was not concerned very far in the Sinn Fein movement.

The decision will be announced.

PRISONER DISCHARGED.

Michael Leahy, civilian, 62 Barrymore avenue, Queenstown, was charged with being in possession of the Irish Volunteers, which stated—"The Army of the Republic is out of the trenches with a vengeance to-day. We have not only maintained our Army intact in face of an enemy of immensely superior strength, but have increased our numbers and armament, and perfected our organisation. A tendency to wild firing has been noticed in some cases. Men should be impressed with the vital importance of this, that they should not fire without orders, and that they should fire under the direction of the Commander of their unit." He was charged also with having in his possession a drawing detailing and describing the working of a mine or bomb.

Evidence was given as to the finding of the documents in a suit case bearing the name of the accused.

Evidence for the defence having been given, the accused was found "not guilty," and released.

EVIDENCE IN BELFAST COURTMARTIAL.

MILITARY WITNESS AND THE RIOTS.

A court-martial was held in Victoria Barracks, Belfast, yesterday, into two charges against William McGeown, 74 Unity street. Accused was charged with having carried a revolver not under effective military control, and with endangering the safety of a number of His Majesty's forces by discharging a revolver with intent to wound a private in the Cameronians.

Accused, who pleaded not guilty, was defended by Mr. J. H. Campbell (instructed by Mr. B. Campbell).

Evidence was given by a private in the Cameronians to the effect that when on sentry duty in Unity street, at 3.30 in the afternoon of the 1st inst. (during the rioting in Belfast), two shots were fired from a second-storey window. He observed smoke coming from the window, and heard the bullets striking the wall on the other side of the street. Witness then saw the accused standing at the window, and drawing in his hand from the window.

Witness said he brought his rifle to the aiming position. Accused took a pace forward, put up his hands, and shook his head. Witness reported the matter to his officer. He was only ten yards from the accused, and saw his face quite clearly.

A neighbour of accused said that an attack was made on Unity street, and the accused remarked that he wished he had a revolver, and he would use it on the attacking party.

Witness, continuing, said—I have just come back from Mesopotamia, and I have been amongst the Turks and Kurds; I have been in Zululand and Basutoland in my time, and I have never seen such savagery as I have seen here under the "Jack."

The court found the accused not guilty, and he was discharged.

UNION OF CHURCH ORGANISTS.

Trade unions are the order of the day. A few days ago the first Congress of the National Union of Organists was held at Southport. The union is designed to further the interests of organists, and to secure for them proper treatment and adequate remuneration. Dr. Prendergast, organist of Winchester Cathedral, said that they must do something for the good of the whole profession, but mainly for those who would come after them. He was careful to add—"It is quite contrary to the nature of organists to strike." Dr. Bridge, of Chester Cathedral, said that the clergy should put before their people the necessity of paying organists a living wage, though, unfortunately, many of the clergy themselves had not got it. More, he said, could be done in this connection if the Church would only place its finance on a proper business basis.

According to a Vladivostok telegram, dated Saturday, the General of the Japanese Command in Siberia has issued a declaration stating that the political situation has so far improved in the Habarovsk district that he has ordered its evacuation.

Disease succeeds where Resistance is Low

In times of worry and uncertainty the powers of resistance are weakened leaving the body a ready prey to disease.

By giving strength Hall's Wine enables the system to establish itself. It is unequalled in anæmia and nerve weakness and has been prescribed by doctors for nearly thirty years as a restorative in convalescence.

Hall's Wine
THE SUPREME TONIC RESTORATIVE

A doctor writes: "Hall's Wine has prevented many a serious breakdown, I know of nothing better." Another doctor says: "Hall's Wine never fails."

"I have found Hall's Wine particularly efficacious in general weakness and nerve weakness, and have recommended it to hundreds."

The Irish Times.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1920.

Poland and Lithuania in Paris yesterday agreed to suspend hostilities pending the League of Nations inquiry into, and decision on, the issues at stake.—(P. 5.)

It is semi-officially stated that M. Millerand will be a candidate for the French Presidency. (P. 5.)

General Sir Nevil Macready, in an interview with a representative of the Paris Liberté, says that the Government may be able to suppress the small band of terrorists who impose their will upon Ireland, and that in that event peace soon may follow.—(P. 5.)

The Poles express the hope that the moderate terms which they propose to offer to the Soviet representatives at Riga may lead to an enduring peace.—(P. 5.)

There was a further conference between the Miners' Executive and Sir Robert Horne yesterday, but no solution of the dispute was reached. The whole matter accordingly goes before the delegate meeting of miners to be held in London to-day.—(P. 5.)

The final stage in the Turf conspiracy case was entered upon at the Old Bailey yesterday, when charges were heard in connection with the alleged substitution of Shining More for Silver Badge at Cheltenham. The hearing was adjourned.—(P. 3.)

The Lord Mayor of Cork was stated yesterday afternoon to be weaker, but quite conscious.—(P. 5.)

In Church street, Dublin, yesterday morning a lorry containing soldiers was attacked by armed civilians. The soldiers defended themselves and returned the fire. It is officially reported that two soldiers and one civilian were killed.—(P. 5.)

Two military sergeants died in King George V. Hospital yesterday from gunshot wounds received, it is believed, in a quarrel at Portobello Barracks. A private soldier was also wounded.—(P. 5.)

An interview with the Secretary of the City of Dublin War Pensions Committee regarding the position of tubercular ex-service men in the event of the closing of the Dublin sanatoria is published to-day.—(P. 6.)

The inquest on the body of John Doyle, son of Councillor Peter Doyle, who was shot by the military near the Dublin mountains on Sunday, was adjourned yesterday.—(P. 5.)

Sir John Byers, the eminent Belfast physician, died last night.

Four men were yesterday remanded in connection with the death of William McDowell, who was murdered and robbed of £1,308 at Banbridge on the 3rd inst.—(P. 5.)

Four soldiers were disarmed at Herbertstown, Co. Limerick, on Sunday.—(P. 5.)

Hand grenades were thrown into residences in Galway on Sunday. These incidents were followed by an outbreak of rifle firing.—(P. 5.)

Castle Forbes, the residence of the Earl of Granard, was raided for arms on Saturday. Sporting guns and ammunition were taken.—(P. 5.)

Remarkable evidence was given at the military inquest in Dundalk on Monday concerning the shooting of the police motor driver Wheatley. A verdict of murder against some person or persons unknown was found.—(P. 6.)

Police barracks were attacked at Kill (County Waterford) and Scariff (County Clare) on Sunday morning. At Kill the raiders were forced to retreat. Two constables were wounded at Scariff.—(P. 5.)

Castlemary House, near Midleton, County Cork, was destroyed by fire on Sunday night. The property, which was owned by Colonel Longfield, D.L., was valued at £50,000.

In London yesterday the Stock Markets were uncertain, the coal position causing much anxiety. Loan conditions were easier, and discount rates slackened in the afternoon. The Dublin market was steady, with Pre-Ordinary Railway Stocks in demand.—(P. 7.)

THE KING AND COMMERCE.

His Majesty the King, says a Toronto telegram, has sent the following message to the ninth Congress of Chambers of Commerce of the Empire, now in session here, in acknowledgment of their loyal greeting:—

"The King fully recognises that these meetings are conducive, not only to the commercial interests, but to the very unity of the Empire. His Majesty wishes that all possible success may result from your deliberations."

Ireland's Need.

The Irish public has become familiar with deeds of bloodshed and rapine. During the last week several policemen and civilians have met violent deaths. Many acts of outrage and reprisal have been committed in the provinces. His Majesty's mails probably are more unsafe in Ireland now than in any part of Mesopotamia. Two soldiers and a civilian were killed in Dublin yesterday in the course of an attempt to seize military rifles. Nocturnal visits by armed men have become a commonplace of life in the city and suburbs. The average householder reads the reports of all these things with less emotion than an isolated account of some daring burglary would have provoked in him a few years ago. His calmness is the calmness of fatalism or of apathy. Either he has become a Stoic or he has ceased, in sheer despair, to think about the national emergency at all. Stoicism, no doubt, is a brave mood, but it implies in this case a shirking of urgent responsibilities; and despair is an abnegation of all the qualities of patriotism. Refusal to face the outlook is utter folly. If matters do not improve immediately, they are certain to become even worse than they are now. There are many signs that the Government has decided at last to make a resolute effort to restore law and to enforce order. That decision is necessary if Ireland is to remain a part of the British Empire. If, however, it is to be accompanied by no movement towards political peace, and if the armies of disorder continue to resist it as they are resisting it now, the conflict must involve the whole country in terrible hardship and suffering. Outrage will be countered with repression and repression with reprisal until the forces of the Crown prevail—as, in the end, they must prevail. The law will be restored, but in a land which will have lost most of its power to prosper and increase under the protection of law. Even if we had an Irish settlement to-morrow, we should have paid a heavy price for it. The longer the settlement is postponed, the heavier the price will be. We are confronted now with the possibility of national bankruptcy and no settlement at all. The confused and foolish battle against executive authority is being waged not only by methods of violence and outrage, but by municipal and industrial policies of which Ireland herself is the chief—indeed, the only—victim. The Dublin Corporation's war with the Local Government Board is being fought at the expense of the citizens' health and comfort. The munitions strike has stopped or impeded traffic on nearly six hundred miles of railway. It has not left a single soldier without a rifle. It has merely achieved the Pyrrhic victory of throwing hundreds of Irish railwaymen out of employment and of paralysing the commerce of dozens of Irish towns.

We are convinced that the vast majority of Irishmen of all parties desire a speedy end to the present state of civil war, and a political settlement which will put their relations with one another and with the British Empire on a permanent and satisfactory basis. The mere desire, however, can achieve nothing. A definite expression of the popular will is needed and a definite effort to remove the conditions which are fatal to peace. A Government which is forced to concentrate all its energies on the primary duty of restoring law has little time or inducement to be statesmanlike. The first necessity is an end of the campaign of murder and outrage and an abandonment of the attitude of irreconcilable hatred towards England. A compromise must be made sooner or later—as, we believe, ninety per cent. of Sinn Feiners recognise in their hearts. Surely it is extreme folly to defer the inevitable compromise until this unhappy island, the subject of the quarrel, has ceased to have any value or vitality at all. If and when a truce between the armies of disorder and of law is declared, all things will become possible. The second necessity is an end of the economic conflict that is being waged entirely at Ireland's expense—an end, by agreement between North and South, of the boycott of Belfast; an end of the reckless munitions strike, and an end of the absurd and costly conflict with the Local Government Board. When Ireland has made these contributions to her own peace she will have every right to demand from the Government an end to all futile tinkerings with her political destinies. The present Home Rule Bill must be withdrawn, and a generous scheme of settlement, containing a solid prospect of ultimate unity, must be introduced and passed into law. This will not be done, however—and there is no use in expecting it—until Irishmen themselves have combined to banish the dreadful shadows that enfold their country today. After all, the paramount necessity is a public will towards peace—a real public opinion hostile to the existing conditions of violence and economic demoralisation. Every Irishman can do something to create such an opinion, and the leaders of every Irish party would be compelled to respond to it. In our own view, most of them would welcome that compulsion with sincere relief.

The President of France.

According to a semi-official statement made in Paris yesterday, M. Millerand has consented to stand for the Presidency of the French Republic. On Thursday the President will be selected in the Congress Hall of the Palace of Versailles, and M. Millerand's acceptance of his nomination means that his election is virtually a foregone conclusion. The constitutional limits of the office made M. Millerand chary of allowing his name to go forward as a candidate. Like M. Clemenceau, he is a fighting man, and his life is action. He succeeded "The Tiger" as Premier, and has pursued with merciless logic the policy which lies nearest to his heart. The restoration of France and the development of her economic strength have been his aims, and he has never lost sight of them for a moment. Naturally, a policy so purely French was bound to find opposition among the other Allies. In Russian, German, Italian, and Central European affairs, M. Millerand's policy very often was not that of either Mr. Lloyd George or Signor Giolitti. Yet his personal strength and the singleness of his purpose always carried the day, and the history of the peace negotiations since M. Clemenceau's retirement has registered success after success for the French point of view. Consequently M. Millerand is extremely popular, not, perhaps, among the extreme Chauvinists and ultra-Communists, but among the great bourgeoisie that is France. Everybody knows that, if he goes to the Elysée as President of the Republic, he will not be content with the mere pomp and circumstance of chieftainship, but will continue to wield a very real power in political affairs. One of his chief plans always has been the revision of the constitution of France, and it is more than likely that the next Premier will succeed in passing a Bill through both Houses to give the President wider and more decisive powers than he has enjoyed in the past. President Wilson's quasi-dictatorship has not failed to exert an influence in France, and it must not be forgotten that the French people by tradition, in temperament, and of choice are very conservative, and never have taken kindly to the idea of a "dummy" President.

In Great Britain M. Millerand's elevation to the Presidential chair will be almost as popular as in France. He is a firm believer in the Entente; and, although he has not seen always eye to eye with Mr. Lloyd George in matters of Allied policy, he has a keen appreciation of the genius of the British race, and understands its peculiarities and prejudices better than any other French statesman, except "The Tiger." During his tenancy of the Elysée, therefore, the Anglo-French alliance will be safe, and when he retires we may be certain that its future will be as secure as his will and influence can make it. Naturally, his withdrawal from the Supreme Council will cause a certain amount of temporary confusion—unless, indeed, acting on President Wilson's precedent, he decides to represent the Republic in person. It seems to be almost certain that both M. Briand and M. Poincaré will re-enter the Ministry, but that either of them will succeed M. Millerand is doubtful. A more probable successor is M. Jonnart, whom M. Millerand has been "running" for the Presidency, and who, if appointed, in all likelihood would act as a sort of deputy for the President. Whatever happens, the Millerand policy will be pursued, and, if M. Briand goes to the Quai d'Orsay as Foreign Minister, it will be pursued with some zest. M. Poincaré's return to the Ministry, very probably as Minister of Finance, will mean that the Reparation Clauses of the Peace Treaty will be enforced with the utmost rigour, so far as France is concerned. It will be remembered that the ex-President was Chairman of the Reparations Commission up to the time of the Spa Conference, when he resigned as a protest against what he considered to be undue leniency in the British attitude towards the Germans. Nevertheless, with these men at the head of affairs in France our own politicians will know exactly where they stand, and will be able to mould their plans accordingly. A vast amount of delicate work remains to be done in international affairs, and, pending the result of the American Presidential election, Europe must continue her task of undoing the manifold knots into which our Continent has tied itself. France and Great Britain share the responsibility, and the return of M. Millerand to the Elysée will do much to promote the essential unity of the two great Allies.

Land Sales in England.

Rural England is rapidly changing hands. During the last few weeks the newspapers have contained an unusually large number of announcements concerning dispersion sales. The burden of the income tax has forced hundreds of landowners to part with their estates, and it seems that the tenant farmers would rather relinquish their homes and holdings than pursue their calling under new landlords. Some, of course, purchase their farms, but the majority fight shy of this course. According to the Agricultural Correspondent of The Times, their attitude is dictated by sheer necessity. The average English farmer has to contend with difficulties to which the Irish farmer is a stranger. A benevolent Government has not cleared his path; there is no system under which he can obtain money at a low rate of interest in order to buy his land. The landlord was his banker and co-partner, and, now when he sees the landlord withdraw from the enterprise, he is not disposed to face years of grinding toil in order to pay a higher rent or to repay purchase money which is borrowed at a high rate of interest. Probably much arable land will pass into pasture, and in England the agricultural industry will lapse into pre-war conditions, unless the Government takes immediate steps to honour the Prime Minister's pledge and give the farmers security of tenure.

Shipping Resources.

A welcome addition has just been made to our mercantile marine. The Government is now in a position to distribute 95 steamers which have been surrendered by Germany to British owners. These vessels range from the Bismarck, of 56,000 tons, the largest liner yet built, to a small cargo steamer of 1,500 tons, which bears the name of the notorious Heninrich Hugo Stinnes. Some of them have been managed for account of the Reparation Commission by British companies for some time past. It is not probable that these companies will show much eagerness to get possession of the "monster" liners. The Germans aimed at perfection in the planning of passenger ships, but some of their products fell far short of the British standard, and it is doubtful whether there will be much competition for vessels like the Bismarck. There can be no question, however, that the present state of the North Atlantic passenger and mail service leaves much to be desired. Despite the fact that freights have fallen and that profits in the shipping industry tend to diminish, it is to be hoped that there will be a brisk demand for the cargo steamers.

THE STATE OF IRELAND.

CLARE PROTESTANTS AND HOME RULE.

At a meeting held in Ennis on Friday last—Mr R. J. Stacpoole, D.L., in the chair—the following resolutions were passed unanimously:—

"That we, the Protestant residents in the parish of Drumcliffe, County Clare, view with the gravest concern the outrages and reprisals which are taking place in Ireland, and deeply regret that, while we in our churches are praying for the peace and welfare of our country, our co-religionists should commit outrages which are in direct contravention to our prayers.

"We desire to record the fact that we live in peace and good-will with our Catholic fellow-countrymen, that religious intolerance does not exist in our county, and we sincerely hope that nothing which has been done will disturb the harmony which has always existed in this parish."

"We, the Protestant residents in the parish of Drumcliffe, County Clare, realise that in recent years the British Government has failed to secure the observation of law and lost the confidence of all classes. We, therefore, have been forced to conclude that to save our country from anarchy the Government of Ireland Bill, now before Parliament, which is unacceptable to any party, should be withdrawn, and a new bill substituted, which, while preserving Ireland within the Empire and safeguarding the security of Great Britain, will give effect to the desire of the majority of the Irish people for self-government, with an adequate control of all local affairs, including taxation."

LORD DERBY.

A Paris telegram states that Lord Derby will arrive in England to-day, and will return to Paris on Friday next.

Under the "Curfew" regulations five persons were arrested in Dublin this morning.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

To-day saw the opening of a most critical week in the coal crisis, for only six days now remain before the miners' notice to quit work becomes effective. It may be remembered that it was announced at the close of the ballot that 845,647 miners had voted for a strike and 238,856 against, while many thousands of men did not vote either way. There is thus a very large body of opinion in mining circles opposed to any extreme measures, a fact the extremists cannot altogether overlook. It is certain, however, that the extremists will do everything they can to gain their ends, unless they are checked by a movement within the confines of Labour—a movement not apparent at present—and it is more than likely that the next few days will be days of gloom and unsettlement. At the same time, there is still room for hopefulness.

The miners' leaders during the week-end have been in touch with their men in different parts of the country, and the discussions will give the leaders an insight into the feeling now prevailing among the more moderate workers. There is in some of the minefields a desire for peace that should not be overlooked. This fact may, perhaps, be made clear at the meeting of the Miners' Federation Conference to-morrow. On Wednesday the Triple Alliance will take a hand in the grim game, and it is not at all unlikely that the Alliance will declare its intention of helping the miners by a sympathetic strike. Whether the railwaymen and the transport workers would come out on such a call is another story. The railwaymen certainly have shown little desire.

The only way to victory for the community is for the Government to remain absolutely firm. It has made a fair offer to the miners, and the offer has not been finally rejected, and in some Labour circles it is believed that it will not be. If the Government stands to its guns and declares that it will face the issue of a strike rather than give way on the question of an increase of wages without an inquiry, there will be a new situation that the miners must consider, and, perhaps, take a new ballot on. If they do not entertain the proposal at all, the other unions, who will be deeply concerned, will have a right to demand that the Government offer be considered before they attempt to bring their men out on strike.

A special correspondent of the Evening Standard to-day gives some figures which should be seen by every coal-worker, for they make clear the danger the coal industry stands in from United States competition. The total production in the United States in 1917 was 651,000,000 tons, in 1918 678,000,000 tons, and in 1919 544,000,000 tons. The decrease in 1919 was due mainly to strikes. Given reasonable labour conditions and increased transportation facilities, the United States mines, as they are at present, can produce between 700 and 800 million tons per annum. The United States home consumption is estimated at about 500 to 550 million tons per annum. The exports from the United States in 1917 were 30,000,000 tons, in 1918 24,000,000, in 1919 22,000,000, and during the first half of 1920 14,000,000, including 4,750,000 tons to Europe, as against some 660,000 tons a year ago. The United States can deliver coal f.o.b. at something between five and six dollars a ton, which is less than the average actual cost of production of coal at pit's mouth in Britain. The whole question is one of output. In the United States there is no question as to this. In Great Britain there are the gravest doubts whether we shall in any reasonable time get back to the output of such a year as 1913, when we produced 287,000,000 tons, and were able to export 73,000,000, as against an output this year estimated at about 240,000,000 tons, and an export of about 20,000,000 tons.

Great plans are being made for the reception of the Prince of Wales on his return home next month. He is to drive through the West End, after being met at Victoria by the members of the Royal Family, and it is certain that he will have a great public welcome. It is now suggested that the Prince should afterwards pay a series of visits to the big towns in the provinces, so that the people may have an opportunity of sharing in the welcome to be given by London. Scotland, Plymouth, and Birmingham all want to see the Prince, and it is likely that the desire may be satisfied. If not, the great centres intend to send representatives to London.

The King and Queen are to return to Buckingham Palace during the first week of next month in order that they may be in London to meet the Prince of Wales. Should there be a coal strike, it is understood that the Court would lose no time in coming south. When the King is in London he will take up his public duties at once. Two diplomatic courts are being arranged to take place for the reception of the foreign diplomatists recently appointed to this country. The unveiling of the Cenotaph in Whitehall is another ceremonial that the King will probably undertake to perform.

The British Government has received some very definite assurances from Warsaw with regard to the making of peace with the Soviet Government. The Polish Delegation to Riga is to do its utmost to arrive at an understanding with the Russian Mission, and it is hoped that it may be possible to negotiate peace within the next three weeks. It is to be hoped that the Poles really mean to arrive at an understanding, because their military situation can scarcely become better than it is. Should Russia again attack them in force, it might become worse. Poland requires military and monetary aid, and she is unlikely to obtain either while she is at war, while money may be found if she settles down to work. Whether the Soviet Government will help in the peace-making plans is uncertain at the moment. The latest news is that it is again behaving in a most curious manner.

Mr. E. T. Malone, K.C., Past Grand Master of Freemasons in Canada, has been granted the honorary rank of Past Grand Warden in the Grand Lodge of Ireland. Mr. Malone, who was born in King's County in 1854, has just been appointed Grand Representative of the Grand Lodge of Ireland in the Grand Lodge of Canada.

Important results may arise from the great financial conference to take place at Brussels this week. Over one hundred financial experts will attend from thirty-five of the most important nations of the world. Germany, Austria, and Bulgaria are to be represented. The main business of the conference will be to find a method of stabilising the exchanges of the world. The difficulties attending the solution of this question are enormous, and, if the conference does find a way out, it will be not the least valuable of all the peace conferences.

For the first time since 1913 a Commercial Motor Exhibition will be held at Olympia on October 15, when many new types of commercial vehicles, tyres, and accessories will be on view. Sir Eric Geddes, the Minister of Transport, is to open the Exhibition and speak at the inaugural luncheon afterwards.

DISTRESS IN BELFAST.

Letter from the Lord Mayor of Dublin.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Will you kindly allow me, through the columns of your paper, to remind your readers of the public meeting which is to be held in the Mansion House to-morrow (Tuesday) evening, at 4 o'clock, to start a fund for the relief of the sufferers from the recent disturbances in Belfast and other Northern towns?—Yours, etc.,

L. O'NEILL, Lord Mayor.

The Mansion House, Dublin,
September 20th, 1920.

General Sir John Maxwell had a quiet day, and there is an improvement in his condition.

FOOD CONTROL IN GERMANY.

THE QUESTION OF REMOVAL.

INCREASED PRODUCTION.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, SEPTEMBER 14.

The unaccustomed frequency of meat upon the table brought forcibly to my notice this week the fact that some radical change had taken place in the economy of the country. It has always been a hotly-debated question whether the compulsory control exercised by the Government in Germany over the production and distribution of the necessaries of life has been a step of permanent advantage to the country, or even if it is an efficient method of dealing with the crisis through which the country passed during the years of the war. The papers of all political parties have been hotly debating the question again during the last few weeks, for not only is the question one of the greatest practical importance, but it is the "thin end of the wedge" of the reign of Socialist rule.

In Germany, during the war, virtually every article of common consumption was under official control, not only food-stuffs—bread, meat, potatoes, sugar, fat, flour, meal, jam, and so on ad nauseam, but all articles of clothing and articles made of metal, or any other product whose raw material was difficult to procure. This control was exercised by the Imperial Economic Council—to give it its equivalent English name—a body meeting as a kind of economic parliament. It dealt with all important economic questions, heard the opinions of countless experts, and issued reports on the economical researches. Under this central organisation the whole of the control over the economic life of the country is regulated. Needless to say, one of its functions has been to try to increase production, and, added to the natural forces working in the same direction, the result has been that, in many directions, production is now coming within measurable distance of the demand.

The question then, arises whether these organisations of control have any permanent value. Could the organisation not be used to guarantee a regular supply of cheap and wholesome food to the classes least able to bear the dislocations brought about by fluctuations in the prices of the necessaries of existence? The Independent Socialist Party, through their organ the Freiheit, have fought for the retention of the compulsory control, and, in order that their campaign might secure more adherents than it could as a pure piece of Socialist propaganda, they have laid great emphasis on the danger of removing control at the present moment, since the supply of all the necessaries of life is still well below the necessary minimum. The so-called "middle class" parties in Germany have been strong advocates of the removal of control, on the ground that any form of control is a hindrance to trade, and that production can only be increased, and in consequence prices be reduced, by the existence of free competition.

The recent developments of political affairs have put the Socialist parties of every brand out of the Government, and the present "middle class" Government is proceeding with the removal of the control. The bitterness of the struggle between the two political parties as regards these two diametrically opposite views has clearly shown the existence of powerful arguments on both sides; but the thing which finally settled the question from the practical point of view was our hoary-headed friend, the "valuta." The way in which the control was worked in practice was that the State, through one of its so-called "war associations," bought and paid for the produce yielded up under the compulsory system by the producers. (One should here mention that only the control of food-stuffs comes into consideration to-day, the control of clothing having been removed soon after the Armistice in 1918.) These "associations" also bought foreign food-stuffs, such as bacon, meal, etc. In a word, they acted very much in the capacity of firms holding buying monopolies. As they had to look very far ahead in their duty of providing for the food supply of the whole nation, they were obliged to hold large stocks, or at least to make long contracts with foreign suppliers.

In March came the sudden recovery of the German valuta, and soon afterwards began the "buyers' strike," which still continues; for, owing to the falling tendency of prices and the large stocks laid in by everyone while the prices were rising, no one wants to risk further loss. It is quite understandable that large amounts of food-stuffs soon appeared on the market, cheaper in price than the food procurable with cards. This new food was bought by importers at new prices in foreign countries, while the existing stocks, held by the Government, had been bought at the old prices. I have seen many bitter disputes going on in the various food stores among people who had first bought with the food cards, and had later found that the same things could be bought elsewhere without cards and much cheaper. Naturally the Government is blamed for being corrupt and unscrupulous. Nobody would have the temerity to suggest that imports at cheaper prices should be stopped in order that the Government should get rid of its stock of expensive food by compulsion. Finally, a Government in extreme financial embarrassment feels that it has had enough of social experiments to satisfy a set of unpractical theorists, and is anxious to get rid of the possibility of further financial misfortunes.

The removal of the control has gone so far as to apply to potatoes, jam, fat, and certain other things; while meat cards have been abolished and "customer lists" introduced instead—the net result being virtual freedom from control. As regards bread, the control is to remain as strict as before. This has the approval of most parties. We are still very far from the day when it will be possible to buy white bread freely. The present black bread is unappetising and in quantity barely sufficient, but it is thought highly desirable that provision should be made for unforeseen crises by the collection of large stores of grain. Milk is far from sufficient in quantity at present, so that no question of its free consumption arises. Sugar is still controlled, for it is one of the few food-stuffs that Germany produces beyond its own needs in ordinary times, and its export as an exchange for other necessaries is greatly desired. The production of artificial nitrates in Germany is doing much to compensate for the reduced supply of fertilisers owing to the cession of Alsace-Lorraine. The general tendency of events seems to show that there is no likelihood of a retention of any extensive system of State control of trade in accordance with the demands of the Social revolutionaries.

OBITUARY.

SIR JOHN W. BYERS.

Sir John William Byers, M.D., M.A., Professor of Midwifery and of Diseases of Women and Children at Queen's University, Belfast, died last night at his residence in that city. Sir John, who was the son of the Rev. J. Byers, M.A., Glasgow, a missionary to China, was born in Shanghai. He was educated at the Royal Academical Institution and Queen's College, Belfast, and commenced practice in Belfast in 1879, rising rapidly to the front rank in his profession. He organised a department for diseases of women and children at the Royal Victoria Hospital, and became honorary consulting physician to most of the hospitals in the city. He was President of the International Congress of Obstetrics and Gynæcology in 1896, and had held the presidency of all the medical associations and societies in the North of Ireland. He took an ardent interest in questions of public health, and strongly advocated by voice and pen measures to combat tuberculosis and to reduce infant mortality. He was author also of papers on the Ulster dialect and folklore, and had acted as President of the Belfast Literary Society and the Belfast Natural History and Philosophical Society. Sir John, who was the author of numerous medical publications, was extremely popular with all classes of the community.

MR. F. R. CROTTY, J.P.

The death of Mr. Francis R. Crotty, J.P. (of the firm of Crotty and Aikin, rent agents and property brokers, Belfast), took place on Sunday. Mr. Crotty, who was a native of Dublin, was 48 years of age. He was a Fellow of the Institute of Auctioneers, and for some time represented the Court Ward on Belfast Corporation. After serving his apprenticeship with the firm of Messrs. R. J. McConnell and Co., he commenced business in 1897 in partnership with Mr. Hugh Aikin, and they acquired a wide connection as rent agents and property brokers. Ten years ago Mr. Crotty became a Government valuer, and recently he was appointed valuer to the Belfast Corporation under the housing scheme.

The death is announced at Victoria (B. C.) of Mr. Robert Beaven, the former Premier of British Columbia.

THE VINCENT WALLACE MEMORIAL.

The Very Rev. Dr. Hackett, St. Peter's, Belsize Park, London, formerly Dean of Waterford, presided last night at a meeting at the offices of Mr. Bernard Abinger, Bow street, London, to further the question as to how best to help the Irish Committee to complete the memorial statue to the famous Irish composer.

The Hon. Secretary (Mr. W. Meads) said that Mr. J. T. Tussard had joined the Committee, and it was decided to ask him to act as Treasurer of the fund.

Mr. W. H. Grattan Flood (Enniscorthy) was thanked for placing his advance proof of his life of Wallace at the disposal of the Committee, and it is intended to take advantage of Dr. Hackett's kindness in arranging lectures from them.

It has always been a hotly-debated question whether the compulsory control exercised by the Government in Germany over the production and distribution of the necessaries of life has been a step of permanent advantage to the country, or even if it is an efficient method of dealing with the crisis through which the country passed during the years of the war. The papers of all political parties have been hotly debating the question again during the last few weeks, for not only is the question one of the greatest practical importance, but it is the "thin end of the wedge" of the reign of Socialist rule.

In Germany, during the war, virtually every article of common consumption was under official control, not only food-stuffs—bread, meat, potatoes, sugar, fat, flour, meal, jam, and so on ad nauseam, but all articles of clothing and articles made of metal, or any other product whose raw material was difficult to procure. This control was exercised by the Imperial Economic Council—to give it its equivalent English name—a body meeting as a kind of economic parliament. It dealt with all important economic questions, heard the opinions of countless experts, and issued reports on the economical researches. Under this central organisation the whole of the control over the economic life of the country is regulated. Needless to say, one of its functions has been to try to increase production, and, added to the natural forces working in the same direction, the result has been that, in many directions, production is now coming within measurable distance of the demand.

The question then, arises whether these organisations of control have any permanent value. Could the organisation not be used to guarantee a regular supply of cheap and wholesome food to the classes least able to bear the dislocations brought about by fluctuations in the prices of the necessaries of existence? The Independent Socialist Party, through their organ the Freiheit, have fought for the retention of the compulsory control, and, in order that their campaign might secure more adherents than it could as a pure piece of Socialist propaganda, they have laid great emphasis on the danger of removing control at the present moment, since the supply of all the necessaries of life is still well below the necessary minimum. The so-called "middle class" parties in Germany have been strong advocates of the removal of control, on the ground that any form of control is a hindrance to trade, and that production can only be increased, and in consequence prices be reduced, by the existence of free competition.

The recent developments of political affairs have put the Socialist parties of every brand out of the Government, and the present "middle class" Government is proceeding with the removal of the control. The bitterness of the struggle between the two political parties as regards these two diametrically opposite views has clearly shown the existence of powerful arguments on both sides; but the thing which finally settled the question from the practical point of view was our hoary-headed friend, the "valuta." The way in which the control was worked in practice was that the State, through one of its so-called "war associations," bought and paid for the produce yielded up under the compulsory system by the producers. (One should here mention that only the control of food-stuffs comes into consideration to-day, the control of clothing having been removed soon after the Armistice in 1918.) These "associations" also bought foreign food-stuffs, such as bacon, meal, etc. In a word, they acted very much in the capacity of firms holding buying monopolies. As they had to look very far ahead in their duty of providing for the food supply of the whole nation, they were obliged to hold large stocks, or at least to make long contracts with foreign suppliers.

In March came the sudden recovery of the German valuta, and soon afterwards began the "buyers' strike," which still continues; for, owing to the falling tendency of prices and the large stocks laid in by everyone while the prices were rising, no one wants to risk further loss. It is quite understandable that large amounts of food-stuffs soon appeared on the market, cheaper in price than the food procurable with cards. This new food was bought by importers at new prices in foreign countries, while the existing stocks, held by the Government, had been bought at the old prices. I have seen many bitter disputes going on in the various food stores among people who had first bought with the food cards, and had later found that the same things could be bought elsewhere without cards and much cheaper. Naturally the Government is blamed for being corrupt and unscrupulous. Nobody would have the temerity to suggest that imports at cheaper prices should be stopped in order that the Government should get rid of its stock of expensive food by compulsion. Finally, a Government in extreme financial embarrassment feels that it has had enough of social experiments to satisfy a set of unpractical theorists, and is anxious to get rid of the possibility of further financial misfortunes.

The removal of the control has gone so far as to apply to potatoes, jam, fat, and certain other things; while meat cards have been abolished and "customer lists" introduced instead—the net result being virtual freedom from control. As regards bread, the control is to remain as strict as before. This has the approval of most parties. We are still very far from the day when it will be possible to buy white bread freely. The present black bread is unappetising and in quantity barely sufficient, but it is thought highly desirable that provision should be made for unforeseen crises by the collection of large stores of grain. Milk is far from sufficient in quantity at present, so that no question of its free consumption arises. Sugar is still controlled, for it is one of the few food-stuffs that Germany produces beyond its own needs in ordinary times, and its export as an exchange for other necessaries is greatly desired. The production of artificial nitrates in Germany is doing much to compensate for the reduced supply of fertilisers owing to the cession of Alsace-Lorraine. The general tendency of events seems to show that there is no likelihood of a retention of any extensive system of State control of trade in accordance with the demands of the Social revolutionaries.

OBITUARY.

SIR JOHN W. BYERS.

Sir John William Byers, M.D., M.A., Professor of Midwifery and of Diseases of Women and Children at Queen's University, Belfast, died last night at his residence in that city. Sir John, who was the son of the Rev. J. Byers, M.A., Glasgow, a missionary to China, was born in Shanghai. He was educated at the Royal Academical Institution and Queen's College, Belfast, and commenced practice in Belfast in 1879, rising rapidly to the front rank in his profession. He organised a department for diseases of women and children at the Royal Victoria Hospital, and became honorary consulting physician to most of the hospitals in the city. He was President of the International Congress of Obstetrics and Gynæcology in 1896, and had held the presidency of all the medical associations and societies in the North of Ireland. He took an ardent interest in questions of public health, and strongly advocated by voice and pen measures to combat tuberculosis and to reduce infant mortality. He was author also of papers on the Ulster dialect and folklore, and had acted as President of the Belfast Literary Society and the Belfast Natural History and Philosophical Society. Sir John, who was the author of numerous medical publications, was extremely popular with all classes of the community.

MR. F. R. CROTTY, J.P.

The death of Mr. Francis R. Crotty, J.P. (of the firm of Crotty and Aikin, rent agents and property brokers, Belfast), took place on Sunday. Mr. Crotty, who was a native of Dublin, was 48 years of age. He was a Fellow of the Institute of Auctioneers, and for some time represented the Court Ward on Belfast Corporation. After serving his apprenticeship with the firm of Messrs. R. J. McConnell and Co., he commenced business in 1897 in partnership with Mr. Hugh Aikin, and they acquired a wide connection as rent agents and property brokers. Ten years ago Mr. Crotty became a Government valuer, and recently he was appointed valuer to the Belfast Corporation under the housing scheme.

The death is announced at Victoria (B. C.) of Mr. Robert Beaven, the former Premier of British Columbia.

THE VINCENT WALLACE MEMORIAL.

The Very Rev. Dr. Hackett, St. Peter's, Belsize Park, London, formerly Dean of Waterford, presided last night at a meeting at the offices of Mr. Bernard Abinger, Bow street, London, to further the question as to how best to help the Irish Committee to complete the memorial statue to the famous Irish composer.

The Hon. Secretary (Mr. W. Meade) said that Mr. J. T. Tussard had joined the Committee, and it was decided to ask him to act as Treasurer of the fund.

Mr. W. H. Grattan Flood (Enniscorthy) was thanked for placing his advance proof of his life of Wallace at the disposal of the Committee, and it is intended to take advantage of Dr. Hackett's kindness in arranging lectures from them.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

WHY NOT?

The Times devotes a leading article to the coal situation, as revealed by yesterday's resumed conference between the Miners' Executive and the Government. Commenting on the refusal of the Miners' Executive to submit the present claim to any court, and their demand that it shall be conceded unconditionally by the Government, The Times says:—It will seem almost incredible that the miners are ready to plunge the country into all the disastrous consequences that a coal strike would entail, rather than do what all other industries are constantly doing, and submit their claim to a properly constituted court. Mr. Smillie's argument for refusing, and for insisting on the concession being made by the Government, will make exactly the opposite impression to that he intended. He went once more over the grounds on which the claim for an advance is made—the cost of living, the arduousness and danger of the miner's work, his right to a fair wage, and so on. But the stronger the claim, then the more reason for submitting it to a court. People will say—"Why not? If the case is so strong, why not seize the opportunity to prove it to the satisfaction of the public?" It would not take long. Sir Robert Horne has offered an immediate hearing. To take a step which must defeat its own ostensible object, inflict incalculable and lasting damage on the whole country, increase the cost of living, depress the exchange against us, cause widespread suffering, impoverish the trade unions, and threaten to break them up—to do all this, rather than bring a case declared to be impregnable before a Court in which it could be established beyond a cavil, would be an act so irrational that it is open only to two interpretations. Either the miners fear to submit their case because they cannot prove it, or the men who have engineered this strike wish to do as much harm as they can to their country and their countrymen for no real purpose whatever. For it is quite certain that one result of a coal strike would be to make impossible the payment of the advance which it is called to enforce. It is unthinkable that the majority of the Miners' Executive can desire such a mad adventure, and the tone of their conversations with Sir Robert Horne plainly shows that they do not. What they are apparently afraid of is having to go back to the delegates and say that all they have gained is an inquiry into their claim. But for that they should blame the advisers who have led them into a false position. The Government's offer cannot be held other than reasonable, because it is only in accord with the regular procedure followed by other nations, who will say, with the general public—"Why not accept it?"

THE GOVERNMENT AND THE MIDDLE EAST.

The Times, in a leading article, says:—Sir Percy Cox, the new High Commissioner for Mesopotamia, should reach Bagdad this week, if his movements are not impeded. Upon his arrival he will, doubtless, issue a fresh proclamation. The India Office says that he will again declare the intention of the British Government to form an Arab State, and will set about the task as soon as order has been restored. In the meantime, we think the Government should make some statement of their Middle Eastern policy to the British public, who are almost as much concerned as the Arabs. The extensive military operations now developing in Mesopotamia will either involve additional taxation or they will play havoc with Mr. Chamberlain's plans for the reduction of debt. The public, who are the victims of the Government's Oriental muddles, have every right to know what the present policy is. An official statement might begin by explaining how responsibility for the Middle East is allocated. Supposing they have a military policy, is it framed upon the advice of the Imperial General Staff, or conducted in defiance of the best military opinion available? For the public who have to pay, the one question which excites interest is whether we are to garrison Mesopotamia or not. Our own views on this point have been stated so often that we need not reiterate them. There can be no doubt that the whole Arabian policy of Great Britain stands in urgent need of revision, and that the delusive dream of a huge Arabian federation should no longer be entertained in any official quarter. It was always dependent upon the ability of the Arab leaders to maintain their own position, and to work in unison for a common object; and this they have proved unable to do. This country is not now in a position to accept prolonged military commitments on a large scale in the Middle East. It is hardly necessary to add that the scheme for a new Middle East Department will need treatment by the House of Commons no less vigorous than that given to the proposed Ministry of Mines. From the moment Lord Milner and Zaghlul Pasha came to a tentative agreement upon the future control of Egypt, the proposed Middle East Department lost its hypothetical justification.

M. MILLERAND'S DECISION.

In the course of a message dealing with the decision of M. Millerand, the French Prime Minister, to stand as a candidate for the Presidency of the Republic, the Paris Correspondent of The Times states that when M. Millerand returned from Rambouillet he summoned his Ministers together, and informed them that, if he were called to undertake the difficult task of presiding over the destinies of the Republic, he intended to keep in the closest personal touch with each and every one of his Ministers, declaring, in fact, that, as President, he would play a more definitely directing part than had been played by his predecessors. While it may well be that this attitude on the part of the Prime Minister may lose a certain number of votes, one cannot believe that at this critical hour it can in any way imperil his election by a triumphant majority.

FRANCO-SPANISH MOVE IN MOROCCO.

Perhaps the most important military operations since the institution of French protectorate in Morocco are now taking place, cables the Tangier Correspondent of The Times. About twelve or fourteen thousand Protectorate troops are advancing into the mountainous country in the region of the Holy City of Wazzan, for the purpose of occupying a large district which has never yet submitted to the French. At the same time, the Spanish forces, a little further to the north, are advancing east of Alcazar-el-Kebir, in a parallel movement, for the purpose of occupying Sheshuan. Less than 20 miles separates the French and Spanish Armies, as each advances eastward in the respective zones. The resistance of the tribesmen will be weakened by this wisely combined action, but heavy fighting is probable.

WALL STREET CLUES.

Cabling yesterday the New York Correspondent of The Times says—The Wall street bomb mystery is still far from being cleared up, although two clues, which are considered important by the investigating authorities, have been discovered to-day. Fire Department workers who have been checking shipments of stores and explosives to and from New York and other places in the vicinity have obtained information which points to the source of the material used for the gigantic bomb which, according to the figures, killed 33 people and injured over 300. The second clue is the discovery of a man who shod the fore-feet of a horse belonging to the dray in which the bomb was carried. This, however, was two months ago, and the horse may have changed hands in the interval. The hind-feet were shod 48 hours before the explosion, and the police are now convinced that the horse came with the waggon in a ferry from New Jersey, and they are, therefore, searching every blacksmith's shop there.

THE CHURCHES AND PROHIBITION.

The Prohibition campaign in Victoria is being hotly carried on by both sides, states a message from the Melbourne Correspondent of The Times. The voting on the question will take place on the same day as the polling in the State general election—about October 21. A vigorous fight over the issue has developed in Queensland, where the full forces of the two organisations are being devoted to propaganda. As the Anti-Prohibitionists in Victoria are quoting the opinions expressed by the Anglican Synod of Adelaide against a complete ban of the trade, the Prohibitionists in the State have produced a pastoral from the Church of England here, signed by the acting Metropolitan and four Vicars-General, supporting the movement. The Roman Catholic Archbishop of Queensland has issued a pastoral, which was read in all his churches yesterday, against Prohibition, pointing out that it aimed, directly or indirectly, at the sacrifice of the Mass.

MASONIC FUSION PLAN.

According to The Times, there is a strong movement in the Transvaal, where there are at present four Masonic bodies with jurisdiction—English, Irish, Scottish, and Dutch—to form a united and independent Grand Lodge, composed of all four sections. The English District of the Transvaal, formed in 1895, has now 55 Lodges, all in a flourishing condition. During that period of 25 years there have been but two District Grand Masters, the second of whom, Mr. Charles Aburrow, still holds the office. There are also three other English District Grand Lodges in South Africa, Central, Eastern, and Western Divisions, with an aggregate of 82 Lodges. These would be unaffected by the proposed organisation. A similar movement is afoot in New Zealand.

FRENCH PRESIDENCY.

M. MILLERAND TO BE A CANDIDATE.

MINISTERIAL CHANGES.

It is semi-officially announced, says a Reuter message, dated Paris, Monday, that M. Millerand will be a candidate for the Presidency.

Every day, says a Reuter Paris message, brings further manifestations of the popular desire that M. Millerand should reconsider his decision not to accept election to the Presidency. The Press is unanimous in forecasting that he would be unopposed at the preliminary voting of the Senate on Wednesday, and so confident that he would succeed M. Deschanel, that it is already speculating as to who is likely to be in the running to succeed him as Premier.

In the course of a statement made to the Havas Agency on Monday, M. Millerand said that he had consistently followed out the policy he outlined in November of last year, which was directed towards the restoration and development of France's economic strength and the improvement of her constitutional laws. He had given reasons for the belief that nowhere could he do such useful service as he could as Premier. If, however, the majority of the two Chambers considered his presence at the Elysée preferable for the maintenance and pursuit of that national policy, if it thought, like himself, that the President of the Republic, while he should never be the man of one party, could, and ought to, be the man, in close collaboration with Ministers, of a settled and applied policy, he would not remain deaf to the appeal of the nation's representatives.

It is generally felt, says a later message from Paris, that the acceptance by M. Millerand of the candidature for the Presidency, which is virtually definite, to all intents and purposes, has solved the Presidential crisis. It was conceded on all sides of the Chamber and the Senate this evening that M. Millerand's election was a foregone conclusion, and that he would receive over 700 votes. No other candidate is known officially to be entering the lists.

It is believed in well-informed quarters that the Premier's opponents have decided to refrain from voting, and they are expected to cast about 100 blank ballot papers.

Unofficial Cabinet-making is already in full swing, and the opinion is generally crystallising that M. Briand may re-enter the Cabinet as Minister for Foreign Affairs, with M. Jonnart as Premier, and M. Poincaré's name is mentioned for the portfolio of Finance.

LITHUANIA AND POLAND.

HOSTILITIES SUSPENDED.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS AS ARBITER.

At the meeting of the League of Nations Council to-day, says a Paris telegram dated Monday, Poland and Lithuania agreed to suspend hostilities, pending an inquiry into and a decision on the issues at stake. The acceptance of the League's arbitration came in a most dramatic manner, at a moment when the prospects of a settlement seemed most gloomy. M. Paderewski made a stirring speech, expressing Poland's desire for peace, and his confidence in the fact that a similar desire existed in Lithuania. At the conclusion of the speech, M. Woldemar, the Lithuanian delegate, walked over to the Polish delegates, and warmly shook hands, saying that he had full confidence in the Council of the League, and would abide by its decision.

RIGA NEGOTIATIONS.

POLAND'S MODERATE CLAIMS.

HOPES OF PERMANENT PEACE.

The following has been communicated to Reuter's Agency by a Polish source:—

Warsaw, Sunday.—The Polish Parliament will reassemble on September 24th. The Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, M. Dabski, Chairman of the Polish Peace Delegation, states that the Polish Delegation will present a concrete proposal as to the preliminaries of peace with the Bolsheviks at the second meeting at Riga. The proposals will be of a conciliatory and moderate character, as Poland does not desire to exploit her victories on the field of battle, but wants to bring about a lasting understanding, satisfactory to both parties. Both are willing to recognise that the sovereignty of the two States must remain intact, without any interference with the internal affairs of either. The question of disarmament will be favourably considered on the basis of reciprocity. The question of the frontiers will not cause any difficulty. The Polish delegation will put forward claims to territories inhabited by a Polish majority only. Economic questions will be discussed only after the preliminaries of peace have been signed. The principle of no indemnities will be accepted, and only the return of treasures taken away from Poland during the Tsar's régime, such as libraries, objects of art, etc., will be demanded.

Reuter's Agency learns from a Polish source that the Polish Minister of War, General Somkowski, has issued an order for the partial demobilisation of the Polish Army. It is contended this may be regarded as a signal proof of Poland's sincere desire for peace. The Government is confident that the negotiations in Riga will be of short duration, and will bring about a permanent peace.

DETAILS OF THE FIGHTING.

An official communiqué issued at Warsaw on Saturday says:—Polish detachments have thrown the enemy across the Strypa. A number of enemy attacks in the Kobryn were repulsed.

The following official communiqué was issued at Warsaw on Sunday:—

Continuing our pursuit of the enemy, we have occupied the Zebrues-Pussiatyn-Trembowla-Olejou-Tarnopol-Brody line. The Polish troops, after obstinate fighting to-day, occupied Dubno.

SIR REGINALD TOWER AND DANZIG.

A Danzig telegram received in Paris yesterday says that Sir Reginald Tower, Allied High Commissioner, intends to present to the Council of Ambassadors a proposal regarding the regulation of the Danzig problem. It is understood that his recommendations will differ from the Polish and German proposals. Commenting on this, the Journal says that, up to the present, the personal action of Sir Reginald Tower has, unfortunately, only complicated an already difficult situation.

THE NEW YORK EXPLOSION.

ANOTHER THREAT.

Reuter's New York Correspondent, telegraphing on Monday, says:—Mr. William Edwards, the Collector of Inland Revenue for New York district, received this morning a postcard, signed "A Citizen," stating that an attempt will be made at 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon to blow up the Customs House, a huge building on the water front, which has been heavily guarded since the Wall street explosion. Mr. Edwards declares that he is inclined to regard the warning as a hoax. The police are investigating the affair.

Edward Fischer, the supposed lunatic lawyer, who was arrested at Hamilton, Ontario, in connection with the Wall street explosion, arrived here in custody this morning. He was welcomed by a swarm of reporters and photographers, with whom he exchanged jocular remarks. He seemed to be in the highest spirits, though somewhat overstrung. Accompanied by detectives Fischer insisted on going immediately to the nearest refreshment room, where he ate a hearty breakfast of beefsteak and coffee, afterwards washing his face in a glass of water. Then, still chuckling, he was removed to the police headquarters, where, in the course of a cursory examination, he continued to assert that it was a premonition that warned him of the explosion, adding—"More will happen in the future. Unseen powers have communicated that to me."

THE AALAND ISLANDS.

At a meeting of the League of Nations Council yesterday, says a Paris telegram, M. Enckell, Finnish delegate, made a formal public protest against the conclusions of the Commission of Jurists appointed to deal with the Aaland Islands questions, and declared that, while recognising the good offices of the League of Nations, Finland would not accept any solution which placed in doubt her sovereignty over the Aalands. The matter thus remains at a deadlock, but may be discussed again next month, when the Council re-assembles.

Arrested at Brighton on Saturday, Frank William Jones, described at a bank clerk, was charged at Marlborough street, London, yesterday with stealing a banker's cheque for payment of £200, and divers bonds value £1,000 and upwards, the property of his employers, Lloyds Bank, Limited. To a police officer the accused man said that the origin of this trouble was blackmail. He was remanded for a week.

FIGHT IN A DUBLIN STREET.

MILITARY ATTACKED BY CIVILIANS.

TWO SOLDIERS KILLED AND THREE WOUNDED.

ONE CIVILIAN DEAD AND OTHERS INJURED.

ATTACKING PARTY BEATEN OFF.

Two soldiers and at least one civilian have died as a result of a conflict which took place yesterday morning in Church street, Dublin.

A military lorry, in charge of seven soldiers from Collinstown Camp, called as usual at Messrs. Monks's Bakery for a supply of bread. They were instantly attacked by armed civilians.

The firing, which lasted only a few minutes, was interrupted by the arrival of soldiers from the North Dublin Workhouse, which is close by.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

An official report issued from Military Headquarters yesterday afternoon stated:—

"This morning a party of 1 N.C.O. and 6 men of the Duke of Wellington's Regiment were fired on by a body of civilians outside a bakery in Church street, Dublin. One soldier was killed and four were wounded. A picquet of Lancashire Fusiliers in the vicinity, hearing the shots, hurried to their comrades' assistance, and succeeded in arresting one of the aggressors.

"No arms or equipment were lost by the soldiers."

A later official report stated that a second soldier died from wounds received.

DETAILS OF THE ATTACK.

One of the most startling shooting affairs that has occurred in Dublin for some time past took place in the city in the forenoon of yesterday, when a party of armed civilians came into conflict with seven soldiers in charge of a military motor lorry. At least three lives were lost, and several soldiers and civilians wounded.

It appears that for some time past a military motor lorry with an armed guard has driven into the city every morning from the camp at Collinstown for the purpose of obtaining a supply of bread at the bakery of Messrs. Patrick Monks and Co., North King street. At about half-past eleven o'clock yesterday the motor lorry drew up at the bakery, being in charge of one N.C.O. and six men of the Duke of Wellington's (West Riding Regiment). To all appearances, the thoroughfare was then in its normal state, but from incidents which occurred immediately preceding and following the arrival of the lorry it would seem certain that a premeditated attack was made upon the soldiers.

North King street is a narrow thoroughfare, and the bakery stands on the corner of Church street, with entrances from both thoroughfares. From the versions of the affair related by several eye-witnesses who happened to be in the vicinity, it would appear that shortly after eleven o'clock a party of ten or a dozen civilians walked quietly up to the bakery, and then divided into two sections. One party of about five men entered the premises, No. 38 North King street, and walked quietly through into the yard of the bakery. The other section meanwhile sauntered up and down Church street, some of them apparently engaged in reading newspapers. Two of the party which entered the bakery premises proceeded to the office with revolvers in their hands. There were in the office at the time three employés of the firm—Mr. Feely (who was in charge), Mr. Molloy, and Miss Byrne. One of the intruders presented a revolver at Mr. Molloy and shouted "Hands up!" while the second asked to be shown the telephone. Entering the inner office, where the telephone was situated, this man removed the receiver and cut the wire. Miss Byrne was naturally somewhat upset by the startling intrusion, and Mr. Molloy went to her aid.

A VOLLEY OF SHOTS

Almost simultaneously with what was happening in the office the military lorry drew up at the bakery, and its arrival was greeted with a volley of shots from automatic pistols. When the firing opened it would seem that five or six soldiers had climbed out of the lorry and entered the bakery yard with a view to the loading of the bread while the remainder were acting as an armed guard, some of them being in the lorry and others on the roadway close by. Three of the civilian party were in the bakery yard, outside the office, and the remainder were in the thoroughfare outside.

The accounts of what followed are naturally somewhat conflicting, but apparently the whole affair did not last for more than two minutes. Revolvers were presented at the soldiers in and around the lorry, and they were called upon to throw down their arms.

TWO SOLDIERS FALL.

The soldiers, however, prepared to defend themselves, whereupon the civilians discharged a fusillade, and one private, who was standing in the lorry, fell back into it, apparently badly wounded. Another soldier inside the archway leading to the yard was also seen to stagger and fall. The military replied to the attack with a volley of rifle shots, and it is definitely stated that one civilian fell to the ground seriously wounded.

The sound of the shooting alarmed the entire neighbourhood, and people came running from all directions. The shots were heard at the North Dublin Union Workhouse, now occupied as a military barrack by the Lancashire Fusiliers. The guard inside the gates, only a few hundred yards away, immediately turned out and came running towards the scene of the shooting.

ATTACKING PARTY DECAMP.

Upon seeing the relief party approach, the armed civilians decamped in various directions, some of them running down Church street, and others through the narrow thoroughfares in the vicinity. The Lancashire Fusiliers chased the raiding party, and fired several shots after them. One civilian, who had a weapon in his hand, had his retreat covered by several others, who returned the fire of the soldiers before dispersing themselves.

The soldiers captured one unwounded man, and took him to the North Dublin Union, where, it is alleged, a revolver and ammunition were found in his possession. In the meantime, other soldiers rendered first aid to the wounded men of the Duke of Wellington's Regiment. Military ambulances were hurried to the scene, and conveyed two men to the King George V. Hospital—one of them Private Washington, of the Duke of Wellington's Regiment, who, on arrival at the hospital was found to be dead, and the other a soldier of the same regiment who was seriously wounded. A wounded civilian was brought to the hospital in another military ambulance shortly afterwards, and it is understood that the dead body of a civilian, on which there were bullet wounds, was also conveyed by the military to the same hospital.

Other dead and wounded soldiers were brought to the King George V. Hospital about the same time, but the Press representatives who happened to be on the scene at the time were given to understand that some of these were brought in consequence of a shooting affair which had occurred at Portobello Barracks.

CORDONS ACROSS THE STREET.

Immediately after the shooting in North King street, strong parties of infantry turned out from the North Dublin Union, and a military cordon was drawn across each end of the thoroughfare. All civilians who happened to be between the cordons were subjected to search before being permitted to proceed, and several houses in the neighbourhood were also visited by the military, but no further arrests took place, and the cordons were withdrawn shortly after noon.

Naturally the shooting gave rise to much popular excitement, and large crowds congregated near the scene, which was visited by some thousands of people during the day.

WHAT THE BAKERY WORKERS SAW.

The foreman at the bakery, who was in the yard when the first shots were fired, stated that the military lorry arrived for supplies at the usual hour. He was speaking to the N.C.O. in charge of the soldiers before beginning to give out the trays of bread, when he heard an explosion, and on looking round saw one of the soldiers falling in the yard. The firing seemed to take place from all quarters, but mainly from Church street. There were eight or ten soldiers in charge of the motor lorry, which, as usual, remained on the street, and did not enter the yard.

Another employé of the firm stated that, so far as he could estimate, about thirty shots in all were exchanged. He saw two soldiers lying in the yard wounded, one in the arm and another in the foot. One soldier rushed up the yard, and was struck on the head by one of the attackers with the butt of his revolver.

EYE-WITNESSES' STORIES.

There were marks of bullets on the walls of several buildings in Church street, and the window of Clarke's dairy, adjacent to the bakery, was penetrated by a bullet. Mrs. Clarke stated that she was in the shop at the time of the firing, and there was also in the shop a baby in a perambulator, the child having a narrow escape. She paid no attention when the military lorry arrived, as she had frequently seen it at the bakery before. On hearing the shots and the smashing of her window, she became alarmed, and retreated into the back room. Later she saw wounded soldiers and a civilian prisoner being removed. During the attack an unarmed soldier rushed into the shop, and took refuge behind the counter.

Another eye-witness stated that the civilian prisoner, who was a respectably-dressed young man, was surrounded by three soldiers with bayonets pointed at him, and looked in a terror-stricken state. There were many marks of bullets upon the military lorry.

A Mrs. Chatham, who was working in her flat on the second storey of No. 114, stated that when she heard the shots she became weak and collapsed on the floor. It was fortunate that she did so, for immediately afterwards a bullet came through the window and lodged in the ceiling. Had she gone to look out, she would have been shot.

TWO SOLDIERS DEAD AND THREE WOUNDED.

On inquiry at the Military Headquarters last night it was learned that two soldiers were dead and three others wounded as a result of the attack in Church street yesterday afternoon. Private Washington was found to be dead on being conveyed to the King George V. Hospital, and Private Whitehead had died later at the hospital as a result of bullet wounds. Both the dead and wounded soldiers belonged to the Duke of Wellington's Regiment.

POLICE BARRACKS ATTACKED.

TWO CONSTABLES WOUNDED IN CLARE.

Our Waterford Correspondent telegraphs:—A fierce battle took place early on Sunday morning for possession of Kill Police Barracks, situate twelve miles from Waterford. A large party of masked and armed men attacked the barrack. The garrison was composed of six men. Incessant firing took place for several hours between the raiders and the police, the latter using hand grenades. Rockets and Verey lights, sent up by the police, brought a large force of police and military to the scene under command of Captain O'Beirne, D.I., R.I.C. On the arrival of the relief force the raiders hastily fled in all directions, leaving behind large quantities of petrol and bombs, which were taken possession of by military. There were no casualties among the police. It is not known definitely if any of the raiders were injured, but the authorities are inclined to believe that many of them were hit.

Great military and police activity prevails in the district, but there are no arrests so far.

Elaborate preparations were made for the attack. Early in the evening large parties of strangers were noticed in the village. They took possession of the house adjoining the police barracks, from which latter the attack was made. Barricades of fallen trees and stones, and in one case a traction engine, were placed across the road. These were removed with difficulty by the relief party. These blockades were erected over a very extensive area from Tramore (Co. Waterford) to Kilmacthomas (Co. Kilkenny). This represents an area of about 50 square miles. Petrol was "commandeered" from a lorry the property of the Anglo-American Oil Company. Telegraphic communication was also cut off with the village, where the barracks are very much isolated. A policeman's wife and family were removed from the barracks by the raiders in the middle of the night, and they were compelled to seek shelter in another policeman's house. The inhabitants, terror stricken, sought shelter in the lower storeys and cellars of houses. The barracks were undamaged.

THE ATTACK ON SCARIFF POLICE BARRACK.

A Cork message states that the police barracks at Scariff (Co. Clare) was attacked on Sunday morning. Two constables were wounded.

REPORTED ATTACK ON POLICE PATROL.

CONSTABLE SERIOUSLY WOUNDED.

Our Limerick Correspondent states that it is reported that a lorry containing miliary and police, who were returning on Sunday morning from Abbeyfeale, was fired on. Constable Donoghue is stated to have been seriously wounded.

DARING INCIDENT IN COUNTY LIMERICK.

A military lorry containing four soldiers was held up at Herbertstown (Co. Limerick). The soldiers were disarmed and the lorry burned.

HOUSE BOMBED IN GALWAY.

SCENE AT FUNERAL OF VOLUNTEER.

Our Galway Correspondent telegraphs:—Shortly before midnight on Sunday what appears to have been a hand grenade was flung through the window of the diningroom of Burrenmount, Salthill, the residence of Mrs. Kelly, who, with her daughter and a number of visitors, were in bed at the time. The glass in the central portion of the bay window was shattered, and the grenade buried itself in the floor, leaving a round hole where it had fallen. There was a resounding explosion. Chairs were broken, and pieces of the grenade lodged in the ceiling and furniture. A few minutes later a shot was discharged outside the publichouse and grocery establishment of Mr. John Kenny, an ex-sergeant of the R.I.C. Immediately following a hand grenade was thrown through the fanlight of the private entrance. It broke through the stairway, and fell at the entrance to the kitchen downstairs. Fragments were found around the hallway in the morning.

Mrs. Kenny stated that she lives in the house with her two daughters, two nieces, and a nephew. There were about seven visitors. Her husband had gone to live at his brother's residence, Kilconnell, Ballyglass. She and her daughters had passed up the stairs and into their room a few minutes before the grenade was thrown, thus having a remarkable escape.

INCIDENTS AT FUNERAL OF VOLUNTEER.

During the funeral of Mr. Joseph Athy, at Kilcainin, Maree, on Sunday afternoon, John Coppinger Crannagh, Gort, was arrested, and taken to Galway on a motor lorry, for, it is understood, having seditious documents in his possession. Motor lorries containing armed men preceded the funeral to Oranmore. The police dispersed the Volunteers and a cyclist corps at the cemetery. Twelve bicycles were seized by the police. The police fired volleys into the air as they dispersed the crowd.

The residence of Dr. Bartley O'Beirne, tuberculosis medical officer, which was "commandeered," was restored to him yesterday. Mr. Moylett's house, The Retreat, Salthill, was taken over by the Police Auxiliary Force.

WEXFORD HARNESSMAKER'S ORDEAL.

ALLEGED COMMUNICATION WITH POLICE.

Our Wexford Correspondent telegraphs:—Five masked and armed men seized Mr. J. Cullen, harness maker, at his home in Taghmon (Co. Wexford) on Sunday night, and removed him by motor to a cemetery five miles distant. He was there "tried by court-martial" on a charge of holding treasonable communication with the enemy's forces. On the prisoner giving a guarantee to desist from talking to police and military, he was partially undressed, and ordered to return to his home barefooted, and with his hands tied.

THE MURDER OF CONSTABLE O'MAHONY.

Police Constable John O'Mahony, shot dead near Abbeyfeale (Co. Limerick) on Saturday night, was a son of Mr. D. O'Mahony, boat builder, Castletownshend, Skibbereen, and had about four years' service. The remains of Constable O'Mahony are being brought to Castletownshend for interment.

GENERAL MACREADY AND IRELAND.

"SITUATION CLEARLY UNSATISFACTORY."

"A VERY SMALL BAND OF TERRORISTS."

The Liberté, says a Reuter's message from Paris, publishes prominently on its front page an interview which its Special Correspondent in Dublin has had with General Sir C. F. N. Macready, Commander-in-Chief in Ireland. The correspondent describes the career of the General, whom he considers a typical British officer of the Kitchener school.

I cannot talk politics, said the General. I am not here for that. I am a soldier, whose duty is to carry out the orders of my Government, and to see that order is kept in this country. You will understand that I cannot give you the exact number of our troops in Ireland, but there are sufficient to accomplish their mission, namely—to help and protect the police force, which is insufficient to maintain order. The situation is clearly unsatisfactory. We are practically faced by a declaration of war by Sinn Fein, but as the British Government neither can nor wants to retaliate in the same manner, we must confine ourselves to the prevention of disturbances.

Referring to the alleged reprisals of which Sinn Feiners accuse the Army, the General said—Frankly speaking, there have been some, but not many—three at most. We are, however, taking every step to prevent the recurrence of such cases.

After referring to Alderman MacSwiney, whose liberation he is reported to have said would have, as an immediate consequence, an appreciable increase in breaches of the law, General Macready added—In the case of a general revolt we shall be perfectly ready. We have been accused of wishing to provoke insurrection in order to crush it the more easily. This is false, but if one occurs we shall not be caught unawares. Nobody can say when peace will be restored in Ireland, but my deep conviction is that the country desires it, and that a very small band of terrorists is imposing its policy by force. We know most of their names, and the day may come when we shall be able to effect a definite clearance of them. I believe that, if that were done, Ireland would, a month later, know tranquillity and order.

SCENE IN DUBLIN MILITARY BARRACKS.

TWO SERGEANTS KILLED.

Sergeant Doulton, of the Worcestershire Regiment, and Sergeant Sweeney, of the King's Own Royal Lancaster Regiment, died in King George V. Hospital early yesterday afternoon from gunshot wounds received in the sergeants' mess at Portobello Barracks, Dublin, during the morning. A private soldier was wounded, and admitted to the hospital, where he is progressing favourably.

Portobello Barracks are occupied by the 2nd Battalion the Royal Berkshire Regiment and the 1st Battalion the Worcestershire Regiment. No official or other details of the affair can be obtained, but it is stated that during a quarrel which occurred in the sergeants' mess a revolver was fired, two sergeants and a private soldier being struck.

Another account states that a sergeant was seized with sudden madness, drew a revolver, and fired several shots indiscriminately before he could be placed under restraint.

THE MILITARY COUP IN DUBLIN MOUNTAINS.

DEAD CIVILIAN IDENTIFIED.

It had been arranged to hold an inquest yesterday in King George V. Hospital on the body of the young man shot on Sunday, when a number of "Volunteers," who were engaged in military exercises on the mountain side, were surprised by the forces of the Crown and called upon to surrender. The tragic happenings in the City of Dublin during the morning threw a large amount of extra work on the staff of the hospital, and it was deemed advisable to postpone the inquest until this afternoon at half-past four.

The body has been identified as that of John Doyle, aged 19, son of Councillor Peter Doyle, 159 Emmet road, Inchicore, Dublin. Mr. Doyle informed a representative of the Irish Times that he last saw his son alive on Sunday morning at eleven o'clock. A bullet, he had been informed, had passed through the body from the back, perforating the lungs, and death was almost instantaneous.

THE FORTY-TWO PRISONERS.

The forty-two men who were arrested on Sunday in connection with this affair are lodged in the Bridewell. The side entrance to the yard was closed all day yesterday, and the main gate was guarded by several unarmed policemen. A military picquet was on duty inside the yard. Large numbers of people, largely women and residents in this district, congregated, but there was no demonstration of any sort.

THE LORD MAYOR OF CORK.

MRS. M'SWINEY'S OPINION.

The Lord Mayor of Cork, who yesterday began the thirty-ninth day of his hunger-strike in Brixton Prison, was reported much weaker yesterday morning and on the verge of complete collapse.

Miss Mary MacSwiney yesterday said that the Lord Mayor of Cork was in a very prostrate condition.

Mrs. MacSwiney left the prison at 5.30 p.m. She said that she had found the Lord Mayor still weaker, but he was quite conscious, and was able to say a few words to her. On being questioned, Mrs. MacSwiney said that she was convinced that it was the righteousness of his cause that was maintaining her husband's spirit and keeping him alive.

The Lord Mayor's condition at 10 o'clock last night had not materially changed. He was a little brighter than in the morning, and was still conscious.

BELFAST SHIPYARD CONFERENCE.

POSITION OF THE EXPELLED WORKERS.

A conference was held yesterday at the offices of Queen's Island, Belfast, between the Board of Management of Messrs. Harland and Wolff and representatives of every trade or section to discuss matters in connection with employment in the establishment. The proceedings, which were held in private, lasted the greater portion of the day. In the afternoon it was stated that the conference stood adjourned, and that no official report would be issued in the meantime.

GOREY MOTOR DRIVER TARRED.

THREE MEN ARRESTED.

A motor driver named James Redmond, Esmonde street, Gorey, who, it is stated, drove military and police recently, was on his way home on Saturday night, when he was "held up" by masked men near his house and carried to a laneway. His coat and waistcoat were removed, and a copious supply of tar was poured over his body. The military and police in Gorey on Sunday arrested three young men, named Joseph Stafford, Patrick Holls, and William Dempsey, on suspicion of being concerned in the outrage. The military later made a search, lasting four hours, of about a dozen houses in the town.

BALBRIGGAN POLICE SERGEANT REPORTED WOUNDED.

This morning it was reported that a police sergeant had been wounded at Balbriggan, and that arrangements had been made for receiving him into a Dublin hospital. Up to a late hour he had not been brought to hospital, and accurate details are not available.

WOMEN AND THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Reuter's Agency states that, according to a telegram from the Secretary to the International Council of Women at Christiania, the Conference closed with a public meeting on the subject of "The League of Nations' Appeal to Women."

Lady Aberdeen, who presided, said that the Conference had proved how real was their claim to be a Women's League of Nations, and how this experience of sisterhood should send them out through the whole world as missionaries, to use their new powers to help men so to build the League of Nations that it might be able to establish international justice and protect future generations from the terror of war.

At a banquet in the evening, Lady Aberdeen, the Hon. President, was presented with two Norwegian silver salvers, and the new President, Madame Chaponniere Chuix, was installed.

THE COAL CRISIS

YESTERDAY'S CONFERENCE WITH SIR R. HORNE.

NO SOLUTION REACHED.

MINERS' DELEGATES TO DECIDE TO-DAY.

The further meeting between Sir Robert Horne and the Miners' Executive in London yesterday proved abortive.

Sir Robert urged the miners to accept the proposal for an industrial inquiry into the question of wages and output, but this was rejected.

The whole question at issue will go before the miners' delegate meeting in London to-day.

A large crowd assembled outside the Board of Trade Offices yesterday afternoon to watch the arrival of the miners' delegates for the resumed conference with Sir Robert Horne.

After a sitting, lasting a couple of hours, the conference separated for tea, the President of the Board of Trade and Mr. Smillie taking theirs together in another room.

After the tea interval the Miners' Executive returned to the conference room, where Sir Robert Horne retired, and left them to talk matters over in private.

The private meeting of the Miners' Executive lasted for a couple of hours. Sir Robert Horne, who, at the afternoon conference, made a strong appeal to the miners to accept arbitration in the national interest, waited in his private room during the Executive's deliberation, but the conference between the President of the Board of Trade and the Executive was not resumed after the tea interval. The members of the Executive dispersed at 8 o'clock, and Mr. Hodges said that there was nothing to report.

The general assumption is that the whole matter will be placed before the delegate conference of the miners to-day.

The Rhondda Miners' Association yesterday passed a resolution protesting against the dropping of the 14s. 2d. reduction demanded, and instructing its representatives at to-day's conference in London not to participate in any vote which involved the abandonment of this main plank in the miners' programme until a South Wales conference had considered it.

PREMIER IN TOUCH.

The Prime Minister did not go to London yesterday, but arranged to be kept promptly informed of any development of the coal situation. To-day Ministers will meet to consider the outcome of yesterday's conferences at the Board of Trade.

THE STRIKE NOTICES.

Mr. Finlay Gibson, secretary of the South Wales Coalowners, in a statement last night regarding strike notices, stated that the returns from the companies employing 95 per cent. of the total number of persons employed in the South Wales coalfield show that 161,000 notices, or 66 per cent. of those employed, were served. In some cases notices were handed in blank, and others were signed by the local committee men, and not by the persons employed. In different parts of the coalfield less than half voted for a strike.

THE CONFERENCE REPORT.

A verbatim report was issued last night of the resumed conference in the afternoon between the President of the Board of Trade and the representatives of the Miners' Federation.

At the outset Sir Robert Horne asked Mr. Smillie if he had considered with his Executive the proposal that he (Sir Robert) made to them at their last meeting.

Mr. Smillie replied that they had not had a meeting of the Executive. They understood that Sir Robert asked them merely to postpone the matter, and to meet him to-day in order to get a further reply.

Sir Robert expressed his disappointment, saying that he certainly hoped that the suggestion he had made was worthy of definite consideration by the Executive. Clearing up what he called some elements which appeared to be misapprehended, he said that the constitution on the impartial tribunal proposed by the Government seemed to some extent to be misunderstood. It would either be the Industrial Court in its permanent shape, with coopted representatives of miners and coal owners, or it might be a tribunal with the Chairman of the Industrial Court, and no other members except representatives of the mining industry, both employers and employed. The Government, being a party, would appear before the tribunal, but would have no representative among its members. He was prepared to give assurance that the tribunal would meet at once, and deal with the matter without any delay, so that there would be no appreciable lapse of time in arriving at a conclusion.

From the speech made by Mr. Herbert Smith during the week-end he seemed to think that the question of production or output would arise before that tribunal. The question of lowered production would not arise at all as an issue in discussing whether they were entitled to the increased wage because of the increased cost of living, or because other trades had had advances which put the miners in a disadvantageous position. He urged them seriously to consider before they determined that they would not submit their case to the impartial judgment of such a court. Their brethren of the Triple Alliance, the railwaymen, had agreed to their disputes being decided before such a tribunal. He saw it suggested sometimes that there were people who believed an industrial struggle must come. If there were any people who held that belief they did not exist, so far as he knew, among the members of the Government. It was, surely apparent to them that the Government had every temptation rather to concede their claim than to reject it. It was the Government's duty and interest to avoid anything so disastrous as a miners' strike. Therefore, he hoped the miners would credit them with the same honesty of purpose as they attributed to themselves. If that were so, was it not the duty of both sides to subject their individual judgments to the decision of people who could be trusted to do justice in that matter as between the two disputants?

Sir Robert again referred to his project for increasing the output, and said that he felt sure that if miners and coal-owners were to meet together they could readily devise measures to this end.

In conclusion, Sir Robert said that he did not think there would be the slightest difficulty in arriving at arrangements for adjustment of the reward to the measure of increased output, and, in all seriousness and with a just appreciation of the gravity of the situation, he asked them to consider the proposal with their delegates to-morrow before they rejected it.

Mr. Smillie—I suppose we may take it for granted that you definitely refuse to give the increase in wages we ask for.

The President—My refusal, as you know, Mr. Smillie, is to give this two shillings' advance which you ask for at the present time without further inquiry and decision. The Government, as you know, is perfectly willing to give whatever increase an impartial tribunal will award.

MR. SMILLIE'S REPLY.

Mr. Smillie, in reply, said that they were entitled to expect that at least the women and children of the men employed in the production of coal ought to have the same consideration from the Government as the owners of the capital invested in the coal mines had. The Government did not ask the mine-owners and shareholders to go before an industrial council when they fixed their profits at a point where never in the history of the industry in this country did they expect to reach an amount of guaranteed profits every year.

The President—They went to Parliament, Mr. Smillie.

Mr. Smillie, continuing, said that he did not accuse the President or the Government of desiring to see a stoppage of mines. The person or Government that desires to see such a thing was not fit to live in this country. None of the miners' Executive wished or desired to see such a thing. (Hear, hear.) They desired to avoid it, but it was not an easy matter. The majority of the newspapers of the country had been hounding the Government on straight into an industrial dispute, and had been pointing out that they should not give way. He did not think the Government should give way if they had made up their minds clearly that the miners were asking for something that was unjust and unfair. That was his (Mr. Smillie's) own position. The Government should not give way merely because the miners might be strong enough, using their industrial power, to force them to do so. The miners were willing, indeed desirous, of trying to help to get higher output, but he did not think that an increase of 2s. a day could be made conditional on the securing of that higher output. That, he thought, would require to come after their wages question was settled. He thought their claim could be settled there and then. It was a reasonable and a fair claim, and he felt that they could not go before to-morrow's conference and say—"Your claim cannot be conceded by the Government; you must go before an industrial court, and have it decided by them," and then, side by side with that statement, tell that conference that they proposed meeting the mine-owners or some other committee set up by the Government with a view to securing a larger output. It made their position impossible, and he earnestly appealed to the President to settle the question of wages that night, and let them set about, at the earliest possible moment, the endeavour to put the coal trade of the country on to a different footing.

A CLEAR CONSCIENCE.

After a discussion, Mr. Smillie said that to endeavour to secure industrial peace they had given up, without the consent of the people, what many thought to be the most important part of their claim. On the other question they believed that the increase in wages was overdue. They could, with a perfectly clear conscience, go and tell their people:—"There is no other step for you but the step which your ballot vote has indicated." They had done everything that they thought they were called upon to do to try and get a settlement of the dispute.

Mr. Hodges again raised the question of the relation of the miners' claim to the increased cost of living and the Sankey award.

Sir Robert Horne disagreed with the figures he advanced. He said that, looked at from the point of view of the level at which Justice Sankey put the coal miner at that time, and taking into account what had happened subsequently, the miners had had, in the Government's view, an advance more than equal to what they would have got on the cost of living if they had been in the railway service. Begging them to reconsider the question of going before an impartial tribunal, the President withdrew.

SPECIAL EXTRA.

PARLIAMENT AND A COAL STRIKE.

If the coal strike is definitely decided upon Parliament should be at once dissolved, said Sir W. Watson Rutherford, M.P., at Liverpool last night. This is the duty of the Government, and I understand they are going to take this course, and put the plain issue before the country in every constituency. Is a small section of the community to be allowed to run and govern the community or is the Government to do so?

THE AIR RAIDS ON ENGLAND.

The Times publishes to-day the second instalment of the first authentic account given from our side of the German air raids on England. The following are some extracts:—There were no airship raids on England in 1915, but the 1916 series began on January 31st with an attack on the Midland towns more ambitious than any that had yet been projected. Nine airships crossed the North Sea, of which four got nowhere near the Midlands, but four penetrated more than 150 miles inland. More than 360 bombs were dropped during this raid, and the total casualties were 183. Surprisingly little damage was done. Burton was visited by three ships in succession, but the principal damage was to a church and mission room. At Derby the Midland Railway sheds were badly knocked about, but the damage was probably less than the cost of the 21 high explosive bombs dropped there. The enemy again attacked the Midlands and London on September 23rd. Of the three big ships that reached London, two—the L 33 and the L 32—were destroyed, and only Mathy, in the L 31, got back. On September 25th Mathy did a great feat of navigation by flying along the coast from Dungeness to Selsey, and thence over Portsmouth Harbour and Dockyard. For some unknown reason he never dropped a bomb on Portsmouth. This was the last of Mathy's exploits. On October 1st he was brought down at Potter's Bar. Mathy was incomparably the best of all the airship commanders, and the sight of his blazing airship brought the raid to an end. The last of the great airship commanders was now gone. Hirsch had been lost in a thunderstorm in the North Sea in the autumn of 1915, Stabbert was interned in Norway, Peterson was burnt at Billericay, and Bocker was our prisoner. According to a warrant officer of the German Airship Service, what retarded the progress of the aerial campaign was the losses which the German services were experiencing in ships. By the spring of 1916 some twenty-five airships had been lost, and not a few crews, mostly through accidents. Much was hoped from the series of raids by bigger types of airships at the end of 1916, but after the deaths of Mathy and the other stalwarts of the service there was a depreciation in the quality of the commanders. Their most dreaded foes were not our guns, but their own gas and the attacks of our aeroplanes.

ITALIAN METAL WORKERS' DISPUTE.

SETTLED BY SIGNOR GIOLITTI.

In a message dated Rome, Sunday, Reuter's Correspondent says:—

Signor Giolitti to-day convoked a conference of delegates of masters and men in the metallurgical industry. Signor Giolitti put forward a formula with the object of reconciling the opposing points of view of the masters and men. Having conferred separately, the masters declared that they were unable to accept Signor Giolitti's formula, but would submit thereto. The Premier replied that he assumed full responsibility in imposing this formula. In a statement issued after the conference, the Prime Minister decreed that a joint committee, representative of the general confederations of manufacturers and labour, shall draw up proposals for the reorganisation of industries on a basis of labour participating in their technical, financial, and administrative control.

Telegraphing on Monday, Reuter's Correspondent says:—In the conference yesterday between Signor Giolitti and the delegates of the employers and the workmen, all points of difference were discussed and settled by the Premier, who established an agreement between the parties on all points, except that of the dismissal of workers, where judged necessary. On this point Signor Giolitti imposed his formula, which was approved by the workers, and inserted in the decree published last evening, on the employers. Thus, by reason of the agreement reached between the parties and the decree of Signor Giolitti, the problem of the metal workers and other similar questions have now been completely settled.

NEW YORK UNDER PROHIBITION.

Writing on September 7th, Reuter's New York Correspondent says:—It is stated that the bonded warehouses of New York are bulging with strong liquors, captured by the cohorts of James Shevlin, Supervising Prohibition Agent of this district. In little more than six months of Prohibition they have seized and stored 50,000 gallons of distilled spirits, chiefly whiskey, valued at 750,000 dollars. A small proportion of the confiscated stuff, amounting to 1,200 gallons, has been released by Court order, to be sold for legalised non-beverage use. Of 9,000 gallons of wine seized, 5,000 gallons have been destroyed by order of the Court. What has become of the rest?

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

It is reported from The Hague that a Commission leaves for England this week, the work of which will, it is hoped, promote co-operation between the British and the Dutch organisations in the interests of air traffic between Holland and other countries by means of land and sea planes.

The trial opened yesterday at the Old Bailey, London, of Mrs. Thelma Dorothy Bamberger, on a charge of perjury in connection with the proceedings in which she obtained a divorce from her husband in December, 1917. Mrs. Bamberger was admitted to bail, and the Court adjourned until to-day.

The Jiji Shimpo reports the arrest of the ringleaders of a plot to provoke an uprising in Korea and to assassinate the Japanese officials and the pro-Japanese Koreans. It is alleged that the scheme was planned by the so-called Korean Assassination Club, whose headquarters are in China.

A telegram from Lloyd's signal station at Barry Island, dated 19th inst., states that from information received at 11.45 p.m. the British steamer Zelo, 2,339 tons gross, of Newcastle, fouled the sunken Finnish steamer Merkur in Barry roads about 8.45 p.m. The Zelo sank immediately. Twenty-six of the crew were landed at Barry, and one is missing.

A Venice telegram states that Sunday was the second and final day of the competition for the Schneider Air Trophy. As no British, French, or Swiss machines put in an appearance, the only competitor to take part in the speed competition was Lieutenant Vaisseau, of Bologna. His machine had to descend after the completion of the sixth circuit, and was unable to finish the distance. The Race Committee will decide whether the race is to be cancelled or flown again.

TUBERCULOUS EX-SERVICE MEN.

POSITION IN DUBLIN SANATORIA.

ACTIVITIES OF WAR PENSIONS COMMITTEE.

The decision of the Dublin Corporation to close down the Crooksling Sanatorium and the Allan Ryan Home (Pigeon House) has occasioned the deepest concern, and there is much anxiety as to what the fate may be of those who have been confined in these particular institutions which are under municipal control. Anxiety is no less keen in regard to the future of ex-service men who have had asylum in these admirable places of recuperation.

With a view of eliciting some information on the situation that has arisen, and having regard to statements that have appeared in the Press, an Irish Times representative had an interview yesterday with Mr. W. G. Fallon, Secretary of the City of Dublin War Pensions Committee.

Mr. Fallon briefly stated the present condition of affairs. "The position of my Committee," he said, "and of the Ministry of Pensions is that with us there is no question of cost. Whatever sum such institutions may demand for the treatment and maintenance of ex-service men as a result of the present crux will, I feel sure, be sanctioned. That may not be so in the case of ordinary civilians. Hence the position of ex-service men seems all the worse. At present my Committee has twenty-nine ex-service men receiving in-patient treatment at Crooksling Sanatorium, and there are seven others at the Allan Ryan Home. In addition, a number of men receive out-patient treatment at Charles street Dispensary. The arrangements for the admission of patients to these sanatoria are in the hands of the National Health Insurance Commissioners, and not of the Ministry of Pensions or War Pensions Committees. This fact adds to our difficulties, although, no doubt, the Health Commissioners will do their best. Yet the Commissioners can hardly be expected to draw a distinction between civilians and ex-service men. The Ministry of Pensions and War Pensions Committees are, of course, expected to draw a distinction. If the National Health Insurance Commissioners are unable to accommodate tuberculous ex-service men, it may be necessary for the Ministry to make an entirely separate arrangement for War Pensions Committees, and especially for the City of Dublin Committee."

THE QUESTION OF RESPONSIBILITY.

Discussing the matter more fully, Mr. Fallon referred to a leading article in the Irish Times of the 16th inst., in which it was stated that the case of tuberculous ex-soldiers must be the special care of the State, for which these poor fellows sacrificed everything; and in which the hope was expressed that "in this urgent matter there will be no bandying of responsibility between the National Health Insurance Commission and the Ministry of Pensions." This, Mr. Fallon remarked, was the crux of the whole thing. "With regard to the tuberculosis cases," he said, "I do not know how many patients are going to be discharged from the Crooksling Sanatorium or the Pigeon House road Hospital by the Corporation authorities, or under what terms that body would retain them. The explanation for that is that all correspondence on the subject of tuberculosis patients should take place between the Corporation authorities and the National Health Insurance Commissioners. I do know that the Regional Director of the Ministry of Pensions for this region has taken up the matter and has discussed it with the Health Commissioners, but our difficulty may be that before the Health Commissioners have made arrangements with the Ministry of Pensions, and despite the efforts of the latter body to facilitate matters, a great many of the tuberculosis patients may be discharged and sent to their homes. That is precisely what we want to avoid. The question of the maintenance charges for tuberculosis patients will not arise, as I am quite sure that the Ministry of Pensions would sanction any charges that would be necessary to meet unexpected difficulties of the kind."

Mr. Fallon pointed out that the Ministry of Pensions was the official authority in these matters, whereas the whole spirit of War Pensions Committees was to do things "out of hand" and at once where necessary—without the red tapeism associated with big Governmental departments—for the sake of invalided ex-service men. Any threatened breakdown was calculated to upset the activities of War Pensions Committees, as if they were tied with the National Health Commissioners they would have to await the result agreed on by that body before any action, however urgent the case was, could be taken, and the consequence might be undue delay and against the benefit of the patient. "Suppose," he said, "that an ex-service man comes to us or sends his wife in to say that he is unwell. We are at liberty to send a doctor at once to the man, or, if necessary, have him removed straight away into an hospital, and not even discuss the question of charges or fees. That is in striking contrast with all the delays that may possibly arise in connection with any rearrangement arrived at for the welfare of tuberculous ex-service men."

ALTERNATIVE ARRANGEMENTS.

Asked as to the possibility of the Corporation authorities refusing to continue the treatment of ex-service men at their sanatoria, Mr. Fallon replied that, if such proved to be the case, and if the National Health Insurance Commissioners were unable to make any other arrangements, he was quite sure that the War Pensions Committee, acting under the authority of the Ministry of Pensions, would be able to make other arrangements, so that no ex-service man would be sent to his home. He knew that in one hospital in Dublin, with beautiful grounds, a large ward could be placed at the disposal of the War Pensions Committee for the asking. If his Committee's operations were not interfered with, they would be able to get on satisfactorily, and deal with these ex-service men in the way they should be treated.

Alluding to the subject of ex-service men who are patients in Richmond Asylum, Mr. Fallon said that, if the asylum authorities insisted upon a radical alteration in regard to the cost of maintenance of patients, there would be no difficulty put in their way. The old position as to asylum patients was that the War Pensions Committees looked after them as if they were patients for hospitals and paid the maintenance charges. The later position was that the Ministry of Pensions themselves make their arrangements with the asylum authorities all over Great Britain and Ireland. So much was that so that War Pensions Committees do not know what the arrangement is that exists between asylum authorities and the Ministry of Pensions in London.

CLOSING OF THE ENNISKILLEN RAILWAY.

CO. CAVAN TOWN ISOLATED.

Our Newbliss Correspondent states:—Cootehill, a Co. Cavan town with 2,000 inhabitants, is now placed in the awkward position of having no daily inward or outward despatch of mails. This extraordinary development came into effect yesterday morning on the occasion of the closing down of the Enniskillen line, and, in compliance with an order from the Post Office authorities, yesterday also saw the town without a newspaper. The only news from the outer world was that derived from commercial travellers coming there by motor. With its food supply cut off, no mails, no newspapers, no correspondence of any kind, save by a single telegraph wire, Cootehill occupies an unenviable position. Clones, 10 miles distant, is the nearest connection to the Great Northern Railway, while the Cavan terminus, on the Midland system, is 13 miles distant. Many Cootehill traders favour getting goods by motor lorry direct from Dundalk quay, 23 miles distant.

SIGNALMEN'S POSITION.

Dundalk railwaymen at a meeting on Sunday adopted a resolution protesting against the statement made by Mr. Patterson, of the Dundalk and Newry Steampacket Co., at a meeting of the Dundalk Chamber of Commerce, that the action of the Great Northern Railway Co. in closing the line between Dundalk and Enniskillen was due to the attitude of signalmen. The resolution stated that no signalmen had been suspended or dismissed.

BIG VOLUNTEER DISPLAY IN COUNTY LEITRIM.

AN UNEXPLAINED ACTIVITY.

Our Carrick-on-Shannon Correspondent states that much excitement was caused yesterday at Carrick-on-Shannon, where a large number of people had assembled for the cattle fair, by an unusually large mobilisation of Volunteers in the streets. The people at the fair became frightened at the display, and left with their stock—many without effecting sales. Constable Molloy, who had been on a message to the Post Office, was "held up" at the point of revolvers for some time, and a local merchant on his way to post a letter was compelled to stand at the back entrance to the Post Office under the guard of armed men. Those who took part in the display were all strangers, and left the town by motors. Subsequently the police became aware of the display, and paraded the streets (with the County Inspector and District Inspector) fully armed. The whole affair is surrounded in mystery. Police and military in motor lorries went through the countryside. The roads on the Roscommon and Leitrim sides of the town were blockaded at different points.

THE BOYCOTT OF POLICE IN ROSCOMMON.

RENEWAL OF PUBLICANS' LICENCES OPPOSED.

Our Roscommon Correspondent telegraphs:—At Roscommon Petty Sessions yesterday, before Mr. C. M. Russell, R.M., the signing of publicans' licences in four cases was opposed by the police owing to the boycott. His Worship said that an order had been made by the Lords Justices declaring that, as the Roscommon Courthouse was not available, the business of signing publicans' licences should be adjourned to Castlerea. His Worship presumed that the mistake arose through the Lords Justices assuming that the courthouse was occupied by military. In any case, he must adjourn this business (the renewal of licences), as there was only one magistrate.

The Head Constable said that, in view of the improved attitude of the publicans towards the police, they had decided to withdraw opposition to the signing of the licences.

Mr. Russell remarked that there had not been a single licence signed in the county owing to the absence of magistrates or for other reasons.

BELFAST "CURFEW" ORDER DISCONTINUED.

The "Curfew" Order was discontinued in Belfast yesterday morning at 5 o'clock. Since 31st August almost 300 persons have been arrested for being abroad without permits.

RESTRICTIONS ON MIDLETON FAIRS REMOVED.

The news reached Midleton on Sunday that the restrictions prohibiting the holding of markets and fairs at Midleton have been withdrawn through the efforts of the Earl of Midleton and his agent, Mr. James Penrose Fitzgerald.

POLICE MOTOR DRIVER'S DEATH.

MILITARY INQUEST AT DUNDALK.

REMARKABLE EVIDENCE.

Our Dundalk Correspondent states:—Remarkable evidence was given at a military inquest held on Monday in the Louth Hospital, Dundalk, into the circumstances connected with the death of Terence Wheatley, the young Dublin ex-soldier, who had been employed as motor driver to the Dundalk police for some months past, and who died on Saturday as the result of wounds received at 2 a.m. on Thursday last. The court was constituted as follows:—Major Esmonde White, R.F.A. (President); Major Godman, 15th Hussars, and Lieutenant Swiney, M.C., R.F.A.

Head Constable Gallagher identified the remains as those of Terence Wheatley, who had been a special constable, acting as motor driver for the police at Dundalk. At 3 o'clock on the morning of the 16th he saw Wheatley in the dayroom of Anne street Barracks. He complained of having been shot in the stomach. Blood was oozing from his shirt and he was very weak. When asked what had happened him he said—"In the Market square about 20 minutes ago two men shouted 'Hands up,' and one fired a revolver into my stomach. They then took away my revolver." He asked him who the men were, and he would not answer witness. He also refused to state in what company he was. He had him removed to the Louth Infirmary, and afterwards endeavoured to get a statement from him, but Wheatley would not give any information. He investigated the matter, and produced a statement made by John Ryan, 64 Mary street, Dublin, who had been sleeping in a shed a few yards away from where the shooting occurred. Ryan said that he saw three men and a woman near the shed at 2 a.m., and that one of the men fired a shot into the air. A quarter of an hour afterwards a second shot was fired by one of the three men, and the man who was shot ran away. The people had been calling one another by their names and seemed to know each other well. Ryan stated he could not identify any of the people. Witness said that he was satisfied that Ryan knew more about the occurrence than he wished to admit.

BULLET AND SILK HANDKERCHIEFS.

Witness took possession of Wheatley's clothes, and found on him a small revolver bullet. From the pockets of his coat were taken twelve silk handkerchiefs, which were identified as the property of Mr. Melville, whose shop window had been broken that morning, and in connection with which a young Dublin man named Masterson had been arrested.

Answering Major Godman, the witness stated that Wheatley was not on duty at the time of the shooting, and he had no permission to absent himself from barracks. He was dressed in civilian clothes.

Was he allowed to have a revolver? Only when he was on special duty with me. I would give him a loaded revolver, and when he came back he handed it to me.

Had he a permit for a private revolver? No.

Was the bullet found on him a Service one? No; it was a small bullet. The witness produced the revolver and the handkerchiefs, and handed to the Court some private correspondence found on Wheatley when in hospital.

MYSTERIOUS NOTICE.

The President announced that the private correspondence had no bearing on the case before the Court. However, he would attach to the evidence the following notice found amongst the number:—"Republact na hEireann. To Driver Wheatley, R.I.C.—Take warning that if you do not relinquish your present occupation and leave Ireland within one month from this date, sentence of death passed on you will be carried out. Signed, on behalf of the Commandant Louth Area, I.R.A. Dated 12/9/'20."

The Head Constable stated that if the Court wished to have his opinion on oath on that document he would give it. With the District Inspector, he had made a comparison of the handwriting in the document——

President—We can hardly take that. There are experts in handwriting, and the ordinary man would hardly be competent to give such evidence.

Major Godman said that the witness could be asked if he knew the handwriting of Wheatley.

Witness said that he had compared the writing in the document with that by Wheatley in the barrack records, and there was a resemblance.

Answering the Court, the witness stated that a revolver was not missing from the barracks that morning. When Wheatley came in that morning he appeared to have had a good deal of drink taken, but was capable of taking care of himself.

Dr. Gill gave evidence of having attended Wheatley after he was admitted to hospital. The bullet had made an entrance wound, in diameter the size of a lead pencil, and there was no exit wound. There was no scorching around the wound. Death was due to septic peritonitis, following a bullet wound in the stomach.

CAR-OWNER'S EVIDENCE.

James Duff, a car-owner, living in the Market Square, deposed to being awakened at two o'clock on Thursday morning by tramps squabbling in the square. He heard four shots fired at intervals, and, on looking out of his window, he saw three or four men and two women moving about the square. He had seen two of them (tramps) before. One was known as "the Kildare Boy" and the other as "Kathleen Mavourneen." The former spoke with "a real Dublin accent," and the latter with a Northern accent.

The Head Constable stated that he had interviewed "Kathleen Mavourneen" subsequently, but she denied all knowledge of the affair.

Witness—She knows more about it than I do.

The Head Constable said that he agreed with the witness.

WHAT THE DISCHARGED SOLDIER SAW.

Richard Gray, a discharged soldier, who was acting as night watchman on premises near the square, was examined. Two men came from Williams' Hotel, he said, and one of them fired two shots. Later on one of the men also fired two shots at Melville's window. They subsequently went to the window, where one man put in his hand and took out some stuff, and handed it to the other. He had sufficient light to see the men, and when the police arrested a man later in the morning witness had identified him as the smaller man of the pair. The revolver used was not a service weapon, it was a nickel-plated revolver of medium size.

VERDICT OF MURDER.

The Court found that Wheatley was shot by some person or persons unknown, against whom a verdict of murder was returned.

Deceased was afterwards buried in Dundalk Cemetery, the remains being conveyed on a gun carriage covered with the Union Jack. Soldiers and policemen marched in the procession.

DR. HACKETT AND IRELAND.

The Most Rev. Dr. Hackett, Roman Catholic Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, preaching at Dungarvan on Sunday, said that he could not allow the present state of things in Ireland to pass without referring to them. Ireland was going through a crisis such as they never saw before. On the one hand there was a system of tyranny—he called it nothing else—that was driving the people to desperation. He had no sympathy with crime in any shape or form. By reason of the position which he occupied, he was bound to denounce crime wherever it was committed. He thanked God that that diocese had been singularly free. He had no sympathy whatever with the régime under which they were living. No matter what a man's politics might be—each man had a right to his opinions—they could not close their eyes to the fact that Ireland as a nation had spoken, and that voice would be heard with God's help. When she had spoken, no Irishman worthy of the name should oppose that onward march. But when they looked at the crimes that had been committed, apart from political crimes, Ireland still remained what she was. As far as he was concerned, there was only one hope for them, that was to put their trust in God, and do nothing that would bring His anger upon them. The interests of the country should be placed in the hands of God.

DONEGAL MALICIOUS INJURY CLAIMS.

The Donegal District Council has received the following additional malicious injury claims:—Charles J. Keenan, Donegal, £3,500, for a garage, motor car, etc., destroyed by fire; William Keenan, Mullins, £400, for a motor car and equipment burned, and £100 for carpenters' tools; J. J. Twigg, Malahide, £500, for the burning of a motor car, which was in Keenan's garage; Alexander Elliott, Quay street, Donegal, £20, for motor tools and equipment; Mr. David Daniels, £2,000, for the burning of Mountcharles Police Barrack; Inspector-General, Royal Irish Constabulary, £35, in connection with the same barrack; Sergeant William Farrell, £1,000, for injuries received during an attack on Mountcharles Barrack on the 30th August; Sir John Leslie, Glaslough, £2,000, for the burning of Pettigo Barrack; Jane Louisa MacNeely, £2,500, for the burning of Dunkineely Royal Irish Constabulary Barracks; Postmaster-General, £15, for the destruction of a telegraph and telephone pole and wires.

COUNTY FERMANAGH RECTORY

On Thursday night, the 16th inst., when Mr. J. C. Taylor (eldest son of Rev. J. C. Taylor, of Newtownbutler) was going to bed, a shot was fired through his window, but, luckily, no one was injured. This is the second time that the rectory has been fired at by raiders. On the last occasion Mr. Taylor's two sons returned the fire, with what result is not known. Much indignation is felt among the residents of the district at this cowardly attack on a clergyman's house.

THE BANBRIDGE MURDER.

FOUR PERSONS IN CUSTODY.

In Banbridge Courthouse yesterday Mr. George McElroy, R.M., continued the investigations relative to the recent murder of William McDowell, of Gilford, at Knocknagore, Banbridge. The prisoners—William Conlon, Gilford, and William McConville, Ballynagarrick—were brought from Dundalk Jail under military escort and charged with the murder and the robbery of £1,308, the property of Dunbar McMaster, Ltd., Gilford, on 3rd September.

Witnesses deposed to seeing Conlon near the scene of the murder.

Two other prisoners arrested that morning—Frank O'Boyle, Beragh, Tyrone, and Hugh Rodger, Sixmilecross, Tyrone—were also charged with murder and robbery.

Evidence of arrest having been given, all the prisoners were remanded in custody for eight days.

MILITARY SEARCHES FOR ARMS.

Our Cashel Correspondent states that considerable military activity prevailed in the extensive grounds of Rockwell College, Cashel, on Sunday evening. It appears that a party of Lancers from Clonmel and Cahir converged on the famous seminary, and, to the number of about eighty, completely surrounded the demesne. Soldiers "held up" everyone passing, and, having searched them, let them go. No one was arrested. A senior officer entered the main building occupied by the priests and lay professors. A particular examination was made of Professor O'Neill's room, he having been arrested the previous Sunday at Rosegreen, where an arbitration court was being held. The military searched the rooms occupied by the Fathers and day professors.

Two motor lorries of soldiers, accompanied by a policeman, made an exhaustive search of houses in the village of Tang, near Ballymahon, and secured a number of fowling-pieces and ammunition.

Our Strabane Correspondent states that sporting guns, etc., have been handed over by Unionist residents to the police authorities at Lifford for safe keeping.

RAID FOR ARMS AT CASTLEFORBES.

On Saturday Castleforbes, the residence of the Earl of Granard, was raided by masked men, and it is reported that a number of sporting guns, as well as a quantity of ammunition, were taken possession of by the raiders. The Earl and Countess of Granard are at present in London.

RAID ON COUNTY LONGFORD MAIL CAR.

FRUITLESS SEARCH FOR OLD AGE PENSION MONEY.

On Friday morning, as the mail car from Longford to Ballinamuck was passing through Moneylagan, about one and a half miles from Longford, a masked man jumped from the fence, and, pointing a revolver at the driver, ordered him off the car. The order was at once complied with, whereupon the raider took possession of the mail bags for Newtown-Forbes, Drumlish, and Ballinamuck, and made a careful search of their contents, apparently with the purpose of securing the old age pension money, but found none. Heretofore it was the custom to send a strong escort with the mail car containing the pension money on each Friday morning, but since the fatal ambush of the police at Ballinamuck, when one constable lost his life and two others were seriously wounded, no escort has been provided. The disappointed raider, seeing that there was no money to be taken, left without interfering with the letters, and after some delay the car was allowed to proceed.

The mail car from Liscarroll to Buttevant (County Cork) was "held up" by armed men and the mails taken.

ALLEGED BIG HAUL OF PETROL.

Our Birr Correspondent states:—It is reported that two hundred tins of petrol have been taken by unknown men from a boat in the Grand Canal, near Shannon Harbour.

AEROPLANE DAMAGED NEAR BANTRY.

Our Bantry Correspondent states:—An aeroplane which arrived here on Saturday afternoon from Cork military district with mails for the military here was unsuccessful in her attempts to rise for the return journey. Several unsuccessful attempts were made, and finally the machine got injured. The aeroplane struck several fences and got stuck in the bushes and soft ground. The machine was subsequently taken asunder for removal to Cork. Large numbers visited the machine. It was closely guarded by military until its removal yesterday morning in parts for headquarters.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

REPEAL OF THE UNION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In your issue of the 18th inst. was printed a letter from "Inquirer," in which that writer, referring to the Irish Rebellion of 1798, asks: "Was it not against their own Government and supreme Parliament that the Irish rebelled?" If "Inquirer" had read any authentic records of the period, he would not have asked such a question.

James Anthony Froude is not an authority who can be described as anti-British or can be charged with any bias in favour of Irish aspirations. If "Inquirer" will glance over the pages of Froude's history of "The English in Ireland" he will find the situation at the period in question characterised in these words:—"We (i.e., England) gave Ireland a free representative Legislature that was not free and not representative, with a gentry that could not rule, a Church that could not teach, and laws that could not be enforced." "Inquirer" will find in Froude's record of that period that, instead of the Irish Government and Parliament being "the people's own Government and Parliament," the practical force in the (Irish) Parliament was in the hands of a few families who nominated the majority of the representatives."

In the records of the period we have a revolting picture of an Irish Viceregal Government pursuing all the artifices of bribing and bartering with a Parliament composed of men eager to sell their votes for positions, titles, or money. To say of the Irish people of that period that this was "their own Government and supreme Parliament" is absurd. Is it any wonder that of such a Government and such a Parliament Froude should write, in dealing with the situation in 1782?—"English rule in Ireland had become so shameful a parody of all that is meant by righteous and legitimate authority that nature itself repudiated it." We read that, in 1779, the grand juries represented that the fields and highways were filled with crowds of wretched beings, half-naked and starving. Lord Townsend himself (the Viceroy), writing to the English Home Secretary of the day, said that "neither the laws nor provincial justice are administered here as in England."—Yours, etc.,

S. P. PRESTON.

Dublin, September 20th, 1920.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The object of my letter which you were kind enough to publish is to provide a common platform on which all Irishmen who love Ireland can honourably unite to promote her welfare. This object would be defeated if I were to allow myself to be drawn into a public discussion of the points raised by "Inquirer" in your issue of Saturday. The religious and political conditions prevailing in Ireland during the period to which he refers were so deplorable that they are better consigned to oblivion than revived to provoke acrimonious controversy. Besides, so far as the merits of the scheme proposed by me are concerned, it would be just as futile to discuss the points raised by "Inquirer" as to debate the conditions responsible for the English rebellion of the previous century. Neither is pertinent to the question at issue.

The position in Ireland can be briefly put as follows:—(1) A majority of the Irish people demands a Republic and complete separation from the British Empire; (2) a minority favours the maintenance of the status quo ante bellum; (3) both sections appear determined to bring civil war, with all its contingent horrors, upon our country rather than concede anything to the sentiment or prejudice of either. England, relying upon her strength, will not consent to the establishment of a separate Irish Republic because (a) it might endanger her continued existence as "the predominant partner" in the union of States constituting the British Empire, and (b) because the entire Irish people are not united in their demand.

Conditions 1, 2, 3 have produced an impasse which may develop into civil war, followed by economic disaster in which England will be involved, and in order to avert such a catastrophe the conflicting elements in Ireland must become reconciled. Reconciliation can only be effected by mutual concessions in which England must participate if she has the interests of the Empire at heart. Repeal of the Union may not be the acme of perfection, but it contains the essential elements of honourable compromise. No other suggestion before the Irish people presents such a broad basis of agreement, and I am confident that among both sections of our countrymen there are Irishmen patriotic enough to concede or sacrifice some of their political prejudices for the sake of the future well-being and prosperity of their common country. For all such the bridge of repeal is being builded.

Conditionally upon the integrity of the Empire being assured England is willing, according to Sir Hamar Greenwood, to grant "the fullest possible measure of self-government to the Irish people"; but, so far as this attitude of England towards Ireland is concerned, her position constitutionally is utterly untenable. By the action of her representatives Ireland has repealed the Act of Union, and England's representatives do not, and never did, possess any right to legislate for Ireland. I do not profess to be an authority on constitutional law, but, even so, I hold the opinion that the British Parliament, as at present constituted, is not competent to legislate for either England, Scotland or Ireland according to the Constitution as amended by the Union with this country.—Yours etc.,

M. J. JUDGE, Honorary General Secretary, Repeal League.

Carrowrea, Clonliffe road, Dublin, September 20th, 1920.

THE BOYCOTT OF BELFAST.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Allow me to correct the error in your report of the Wicklow meeting, where you represent me as saying that "I was dead against what took place in Belfast." The correct statement, according to the very full report in the local paper, is:—"He was dead against any party that showed bigotry or made religion a test." Proceeding, the speaker quoted the resolution passed by the loyal workers of Belfast:—"That we, the workmen, have no grievance against our Catholic fellow-workmen as such, but we object to an organisation known as Sinn Fein that has caused brutal murders of His Majesty's subjects in carrying out their duties," etc. I expressed no opinion on that resolution, but pointed out that, in face of it, the meeting could not charge Belfast with "intolerantly depriving the Catholic workers of that city of employment."

These resolutions showed clearly that it was no campaign against any man's religion, but against murder and assassination. I, therefore, deprecated the vapid and ill-advised correspondence that was appearing in our papers from persons who did not appreciate the position, lauding up the tolerance shown them in their social intercourse in the South, thereby fostering an ill-feeling—which we are all striving to eliminate—by falsely suggesting that such social intolerance exists in the North. We have no such social intolerance North or South, though a deplorable religious boycott of employment (which I asked the meeting to protest against in general, as fatal alike to good-will and to the prosperity of our country) does, I regret to say, exist, as I proved by the statement which you published.—Yours, etc.,

E. N. WYNNE, J.P.

Wicklow, September 18th, 1920.

THE INCREASE OF VERMIN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—A fact that has hitherto escaped notice is the alarming increase of vermin in Ireland. Now that game-preserving is seemingly a thing of the past, hawks, etc., have multiplied at a great rate. Rats can be kept down with cats and dogs to some extent, but birds of prey are different. Only this morning five chickens were reported missing, while yesterday a hawk tried to take one of this lot within ten yards of me. It is hard to see what the Department of Agriculture can do in this matter, with the restrictions on fire-arms; but would it not be possible for the military to do something with the hawk difficulty? Proficiency in the art of shooting flying is a graceful accomplishment.—Yours etc.,

THE AMERICAN MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSED EASY.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, MONDAY.

Stocks opened irregular, and later advanced 1 to 8 points, under buying of Specialities by Pool interests and an investment demand for Railroads. Oils, Shipping, Equipments and Minor and Standard Railroads were the strongest features. The market reacted on realising and liquidation of the obscure Specialities and Leathers. Central Leather fell 3 points on rumours of a dividend, but the closing was easy.

LABOUR INFLUENCES AT WORK.

The Stock Exchange opened the week in an [...] uncertain mood and without much business, the [...] anxieties relative to the coal labour position [...] causing the temper of markets to be rather [...] highly strung. There was little selling, however, and specialities were marked forward in [...] more than one direction. General conditions [...] appear to be healthy, and stocks scarce in most [...] of the principal departments. Among gilt-[...] edged securities there was only a limited [...] volume of business, and prices sagged quietly in [...] places from lack of fresh supporting orders. [...] New scrips were dull. There was little change [...] either way in Colonial Loans.

The market [...] was awaiting confirmation of recent rumours of [...] a conversion loan on attractive terms. German [...] Threes gave way ⅛ to 6½ on the further slump [...] in the mark. Russians remained nominal, and [...] inclined to weaken. Among Far Eastern descriptions, Japanese Bonds showed no loss of [...] firmness, while Chinese issues were maintained. [...] Egyptians were influenced by the native vote [...] on the new Government proposals. The [...] Unified Loan closed at 62½. Mexican Loans [...] were still inclined to rest among South American issues. The External Loan closed at 57. [...] Peruvians were dullish, and Argentine and [...] Brazilian issues steady, without special feature. [...] Changes.—Rises—French Loan, 2 to 53½; [...] Japan New 5 p.c., 1 to 68 x.d. HOME RAILS FIRM.—Among Home Rails [...] the prevailing tone was firm, though quotations, [...] after a forenoon advance, reacted, and finished [...] under the best of the day. Undergrounds were [...] chiefly favoured, the recent strength of Underground Electrics spreading to the rest of the [...] group. Underground Income Bonds further [...] rose 3 to 68½. Metropolitans were unchanged, [...] and Districts rose ½ to 17. Trunk and Trade [...] Stocks held some scattered net gains of ¼ to ½ [...] to the finish.

CANADIAN AND FOREIGN RAILS.—[...] Canadian Pacifics were around 170. The company's traffic for the second week of the month [...] showed a gross gain of 495,000 dollars. Grand [...] Trunk receipts for the same period were [...] £54,143 higher. The latter group was dull, [...] with the Ordinary again lower at 4½. Mexican [...] Rails were on the dull side, and junior Stocks [...] worked back ½, though the undertone was [...] steady. Among Argentine Rails there were [...] many further gains of ½ to 1 on hopeful dividend talk. Brazilian Rails remained unsteady.

FINANCIAL NEWS

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE.

RISE IN CONSOLS, RAILWAY PRE.-ORD., GUINNESS, AND IMPERIAL TOBACCOS. DUNLOPS BUSY AND EASIER.

Prices more or less marked time on 'Change yesterday, pending more definite news as to the threatened coal strike, which over the week-end seemed to take on a more serious aspect. A larger business was current in the Funds, but with little alteration on balance. Banks keep firm. Slightly improved prices obtained in Brewery and Distillery shares quoted. Marconi shares likewise hardened a trifle. Home Railway Pre.-Ord. Stocks were all in request and higher. Dunlop Rubber issues were very busy, and closed the turn lower. Textiles varied a little. Imperial Tobacco rose strongly, and Oils closed firm. Irish Times Pref. advanced further, but Thom Debs. relapsed.

In the Funds, Consols rose 1/16 to 45 11/16, and War Loan 5 p.c. (by Deed) 1/16 to 84¼, while the regular price was 84 1/16. Guaranteed Land 2¾ p.c. fell ¼ to 51 1/16. Irish Land 3 p.c. ¼ to 50¼.

In Banks, Hibernians rose 1/16 further to 5⅜, and Nationals repeated 15¾.

Slightly improved prices obtained for Breweries and Distilleries. Guinness Ord. rallied ½ to 31⅝, and Dublin Distillers Ord. were bid up another 3d. to 60s., while John Jameson and Son Debs. at 5 1/16 were steady.

Among Marconi issues, the Ord. rose 6d. to 55s. 6d.

Home Railways were in better request, with Pre.-Ord. issues all higher where business resulted. Great Northern Pref. rose 1 to 47, Great Southern Ord. repeated 47, the Pref. rose 2 to 49, the Guaranteed ½ to 52, and the Debs. 1¼ to 58¼.

Dunlop Rubber issues naturally attracted attention. The Ord. varied between 31s. 9d. and 32s., and closed at former figure. The "Letters" fell to 3d., 2½d., and finally 2d. Parent Tyre Pref. were weaker at 13s. 4½d.

In Drapery shares, Pim Bros. Pref. fell 2s. 6d. to 70s.

Among Manufacturing shares, Bradford Dyers fell 1s. 9d. to 44s. 3d., and Cottons 6d. to 38s. 9d., but Coats were the turn better at 53s. 6d. 5s. 9d. Ross and Walpole Pref. again fetched 14s.

As regards Trading, etc., shares, Irish Times Pref. rose another 1s. to 60s., but Thom Debs. fell 2 1/16 to 65, and Burke Pref. repeated 62s. 6d.

Other business done included Imperial Tobacco, which rose 2s. 3d. to 51s. 6d., and Shells fetched 7⅞. Marconi of Canada marked 10s. 3d., and Workman Clark Debs. 85.

HESITATING STOCKS.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

With visions of a coal strike floating about, it is hardly surprising that Stock markets developed a somewhat hesitating mood yesterday. At the opening the tone was moderately firm all round, but, as very little public support was forthcoming, prices subsequently receded from the best in the majority of cases. Uncertainty regarding the probable course of the coal negotiations no doubt accounted for the meagreness of the week-end accumulation of orders. Business in gilt-edged securities was extremely small, and the few changes marked in quotations were adverse to holders. Scarcely a transaction was marked in Corporation or Colonial Government stocks, but the tendency in both departments was towards a lower level. In the Home Railway market business was brisk, the movements registering a number of substantial gains, with Underground Electric Income Bonds once more a prominent feature, the rise in this particular instance running to three points. The sharp rally in the Underground Stocks during the past week, which is attributable to the raising of the fares on these lines, has directed attention to the attractions, if they may be so termed, of other Home Rails, the quotations for which, strangely enough, are now lower than they were at the beginning of the month when the new passenger fares and goods rates came into force. Among Colonial Rails Grand Trunk issues were firm. Support was accorded Argentine Rails in anticipation of the dividend announcements, which are due to be made towards the end of the week. B.A. Great Southern and Western received the greatest amount of attention, but the Stocks of all the leading companies advanced. On the other hand, Mexican Railway issues were neglected, and quotations were marked down.

LONDON STOCKS UNCERTAIN.

LABOUR INFLUENCES AT WORK.

The Stock Exchange opened the week in an uncertain mood and without much business, the anxieties relative to the coal labour position causing the temper of markets to be rather highly strung. There was little selling, however, and specialities were marked forward in more than one direction. General conditions appear to be healthy, and stocks scarce in most of the principal departments. Among gilt-edged securities there was only a limited volume of business, and prices sagged quietly in places from lack of fresh supporting orders. New scrips were dull. There was little change either way in Colonial Loans.

FRENCH BONDS CLOSE DULL.—In the Foreign market French Loans see-sawed widely. The Fives, after a further rise to 55, closed at 53. The Fours were back to 42½. The market was awaiting confirmation of recent rumours of a conversion loan on attractive terms. German Threes gave way 1/16 to 6¼ on the further slump in the mark. Russians remained nominal, and inclined to weaken. Among Far Eastern descriptions, Japanese Bonds showed no loss of firmness, while Chinese issues were maintained. Egyptians were influenced by the native vote on the new Government proposals. The Unified Loan closed at 62½. Mexican Loans were still inclined to rest among South Americans. The External Loan closed at 57. Peruvians were dullish, and Argentine and Brazilian issues steady, without special feature.

Changes.—Rises—French Loan, 2 to 53½; Japan New 5 p.c., 1 to 68 x.d. Falls: Chinese 5 p.c., 1 to 54; Egyptian Unified, 1 to 63½; German Threes, 1/16 to 6¼; Russian Fives, 2¼ to 22.

HOME RAILS FIRM.—Among Home Rails the prevailing tone was firm, though quotations, after a forenoon advance, reacted, and finished under the best of the day. Undergrounds were chiefly favoured, the recent strength of Underground Electrics spreading to the rest of the group. Underground Income Bonds further rose 3 to 68½. Metropolitans were unchanged, and Districts rose ½ to 17. Trunk and Trade Stocks held some scattered net gains of ½ to 1 to the finish.

CANADIAN AND FOREIGN RAILS.—Canadian Pacifics were around 170. The company's traffic for the second week of the month showed a gross gain of 495,000 dollars. Grand Trunk receipts for the same period were £54,143 higher. The latter group was dull, with the Ordinary again lower at 4½. Mexican Rails were on the dull side, and junior Stocks worked back ½, though the undertone was steady. Among Argentine Rails there were many further gains of ½ to 1 on hopeful dividend talk. Brasilian Rails remained unsteady.

EARLY IMPROVEMENT FAILS TO LAST IN INDUSTRIALS.

INSURANCE RISES—RECOVERY IN SHIPPINGS—VICKERS FLAT.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

A limited number of week-end orders exercised a stimulating effect upon prices at the opening of the Miscellaneous and Industrial market yesterday, but these transactions disposed of an easier tendency developed in the absence of fresh support. For this dulness during the latter part of the day the waiting attitude on the part of professionals consequent upon labour apprehensions was mainly responsible. The public remains aloof from the market except for a trickle of business, mostly of the genuine investment class. Iron and Steels and Textiles were dull under the shadow of the coal negotiations, and Motors were flat. Shipping Securities were mostly harder where tested by business, P. and O. Def. leading, and Furness Withys and Cunards responding with small improvements. Miscellaneous descriptions reflected the changing sentiment of the market, Dunlops showing initial appreciation, though closing fractionally easier on balance, whilst B.A.T. and Imperials afforded similar instances. Specialities were in request in this section, Wallpaper Def. coming into favour, and Textile Corporation meeting with good demand. Oilcakes were prominent, fluctuating considerably on speculative attentions. Insurance Securities exhibited a general improvement on the idea that life policy business is showing increased profits. Tarapaca Nitrate were a flat market.

Iron, Coal, and Steel issues showed few changes on balance remaining for the most part dull under strike influences. Vickers proved sensitive, however, and fell back to 23s., or 9d. down on the day. Armstrongs were none too firm at 25s. ex div., and Swan Hunters were about the same at 40s. Bolckow Vaughan partly paid were in request at 14s., Guest Keen proved a bright spot at 42s. 6d., or 1s. 6d. better. Babcock and Wilcox were also harder at 2 1/16. Coal Stocks remained steady, with the exception of Norths Navigation, which closed easier at 8s. 3d. Canadian-Americans were nearly all lowered to accord with the altered exchange position of the dollar, but Columbia Gas were an exception, rising 4 points to 79½. A check to the recovery lately noticeable among the leading Tobacco issues occurred yesterday, B.A.T. closing 1/16 easier at 3⅛ ex div., and Imperials losing 6d. at 50s. Elsewhere prices were unchanged, with United 4⅜, and Godfrey Phillips 1. Dunlops were better at 32s. 6d. bid during the morning, but closed 32s. ex div., or 3d. easier on balance. Oilcakes dropped back sharply to 41s., but recovered partially to 42s., or 1s. 6d. down on the day. Cements were firm at 27s., but British Portlands at 32s. were 6d. easier. Salt Union improved to 24s. 6d., and British and Argentine Meat hardened to 21s. 6d. Stothert and Pitt were marked 25s. on the report, and 12½ Ord. dividend for the year. Wallpaper Def. advanced to 16s. 6d. bid. Better resistance was exhibited by Shipping descriptions under a fresh lead from P.O. Def., which recovered 5 points to 415. Furness Withy stiffened up to 30s. 6d., and Cunards hardened to 24s. Anglo-European S.S. were 6d. better at 3s. x.d. Nitrates lacked interest, and the only movement of note was a loss of 1s. in Tarapacas, which closed 23s. Gas Stocks were practically unaltered, though Imperial Continental were not quite so good at 129½. Bays were steady at 6⅜ in the Land group, but Sudan Plantations closed ⅛ easier. Hudsons Consolidated strengthened to 1/16, and Duffs were 6d. better at 14s. Business was restricted among Textiles, but such transactions as occurred resulted in reduced value on sensitiveness to the industrial outlook. Courtaulds were easier at 6½, and Amalgamated Cottons were lowered 6d. to 25s. Calicos were also marked back to 25s. 6d. J. Barker improved among Stores, closing 9d. up at 33s. 9d. x.d., Harrods B.A. were better at 19s. 3d., and the B.A. Def. rose ⅛ to 9⅛. Motors showed declines, with Sunbeam 1s. down at 20s., Rolls Royce fractionally easier at 26s. 9d., and Harper Bean flat at 6s. In the Brewery section, City of London advanced 5 points to 155, and Watney Combe Def. were also marked up to 152, or 2 points to the good. In the Insurance section, Royal Exchange rose 10 to 385, North British and Mercantile put on a point at 42½, and United British increased ⅛ to 2⅜. Royal Insurance were ⅛ better at 17⅛, and Northern ¼ up at 14½. Alliance at 10½ showed a gain of ⅛, and Atlas the same at 14⅛. Exceptionally Guardian were ⅛ easier at 5⅛.

MINING SHARES DULL.

ESPERANZAS STRONG. NORTHERN EXPLORATION OPTION.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

Uncertainty as to the outcome of the coal mining dispute was still the dominating factor in the situation so far as Stock Exchange business was concerned yesterday. Otherwise public interest, aroused by the cheerful tendency noticeable towards the close of last week, might have shown greater expansion. As it was, the accumulation of orders over the week-end, though not large, was sufficient to give the Mining market, at any rate, a good send off. Orders for Kaffirs were soon executed, however, and this department relapsed into a stream of quietude. The price of gold remained unaltered at £5 17s. 6d. per oz., and, as Paris came in a seller of several specialities on the fall in the value of the franc, prices had a downward trend, and at the close an air of dulness pervaded the market. Crown Mines, Central Mining, Rand Mines, and several others suffered from the unwelcome attention of French operators, and Knights Deep were not unnaturally heavily depressed on the publication of the news of the disastrous fire at the mine. The cessation of pumping at this mine will, no doubt, adversely affect several adjoining properties to the south of it. Like their neighbours, Rhodesians were fairly steady at the opening, but were unable to maintain their position, and some offering of Chartered caused a general recession of values. De Beers were unable to withstand Paris advices, and fell away rather sharply, but other Diamonds kept steady. Tins became dull, and, apart from a slight improvement in Ropps, movements were downward. In the Australian department, several Barriers were lower under the lead of Props., which were depressed on the announcement of the proposed new capital issue. The Hampton group showed strength in the morning, but relapsed later. Coppers were irregular, and Russians showed no change. A feature in the Miscellaneous department was the activity of Esperanza on the latest cablegram from the property. This was to the effect that in the North drive, presumably on the Descubridora lode at the 5th level, the average width of the lode was 25 ins. over 16 ft. driven, the assays being of the phenomenal value of 40.51 ozs. gold and 664 oz. silver per ton. In the South drive the values are given as 0.75 oz. gold and 13.79 oz. silver over 15 ins. The shares rose sharply, and Santa Gertrudis also strengthened, but Mexico Mines fell away, and Burmas also eased. With regard to the Northern Exploration, shareholders are now in possession of the circular asking them to grant options on their shares until December 31st next, the consideration being the nominal one of 1s. per holding, not per share.

OIL SHARES LOWER.

ROYAL DUTCH AND SHELLS DEPRESSED BY PARIS SALES, BUT OTHER LEADING ISSUES KEEP STEADY.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

In common with other sections of the Stock Exchange, the Oil share market commenced the week in quiet fashion, pending further developments in the coal situation. Taken as a whole, this department received a fair amount of attention, although interest was once more mainly in the leading counters and a few specialities. In order to take up the new French loan, Paris operators were heavy sellers of their favourites, which, so far as this section is concerned, are Shells, Royal Dutch, and Mexican Eagles, and it says much for the strength of the market that prices kept up as well as they did. The shares coming on the market were well absorbed, and it was only in Royal Dutch and Shells that the sales had the effect of depressing quotations to any appreciable extent. The turnover in all the leading shares was considerable, and, as regards shares other than Shells and Royal Dutch, Mexican Eagles preserved a steady tone, the final quotation showing only a trifling shrinkage, while Burmah left off only slightly below Friday's level. Indo Burmas were a steady market all day. The Indo Burma Company announces that in the Yenanma area No. 1 well has proved payable oil at 495 feet, and that No. 2 well will be started in the middle of October to prove both upper and lower oil sands. The result obtained is considered to be of the greatest importance, and to prove the large extent of the oilfield. The promised progress report will be issued on the arrival of the consulting engineer, who is expected shortly in England. In the Trinidad group business was on a fair scale, with special attention directed to Apex Trinidad as the result of the announcement of the striking of oil in the No. 2 well. In response to strong bidding the price further improved. Trinidad Leaseholds were a firm market at an advance, and Centrals and United British kept steady. The rest of the list presented nothing of special interest. Closing prices:—

RUBBER SHARES FLAT.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

In spite of the fact that the price of rubber has fallen further to 1s. 6¼d. per lb., there was some little inquiry for shares in certain sections of the market, but business is difficult, as purchasers are inclined to make only very low bids, and in most cases sellers are not willing to part on these terms. For the most part, quotations continue to droop, and the movements which occurred yesterday include numerous falls. Among these were a change of 7s. 6d. in Sungei Buaya to 31s. 3d. ex rights. Sungei Salak fell 6s. 1½d. to 67s., while Krian Pref. fell 5s. to 50s. Sendayan at 43s 1½d. were 5s. 7½d. lower, Java Para lost 4s. at 36s. 3d., United Sua Betong and Pilmoor were each 2s. 6d. down at 67s. 6d. and 62s. 6d. respectively, Damansara and Pegoh each registered a fall of 2s. 4½d., while Telegoredjo lost 2s. 3d. There were a number of small losses. Among the advances Lendu at 24s. 9d. were 2s. 3d. to the good, and Kasintoe rose 1s. at 39s. 6d.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LOAN CONDITIONS EASY.

Bank Rate (changed April 15th) .... 7 p.c.

The Money market opened the week fairly easy so far as loan conditions were concerned, call money offering back to 5 p.c. and even less, after renewals had been effected at 5½ p.c. Weekly loans were 5½ p.c. Calls and dividend payments totalled under a quarter of a million. In the discount market the tone was cautious owing to Bank rate talk and to fears regarding the effect of the renewed acuteness of the coal crisis on the American exchange. Bill rates, after being steadier, however, turned slacker in the afternoon. Two months' drafts were finally posted at 6⅞ p.c. and three months' at 6⅞ to 6⅛ p.c. Bills into the new year were still 7 p.c.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Knights Deep, Ltd., received the following information from Johannesburg yesterday:—"Mill and mill engine house totally destroyed by fire, and portion of tube mill plant and small portion of boiler house. Cyanide works saved, except damage to tailings. Wheel also crusher station saved. Damage covered by insurance. All operations stop, and day pay men not required being paid off; also officials given 30 days' notice."

The announcement in regard to dividend of Amalgamated Textiles, Ltd., was the announcement of the decision of the directors, and not of a formal declaration of dividend. The formal declaration will take place on the 31st October, or thereabouts. This is necessitated by the decision of the directors to allow subscribers to a new issue shortly to be made to participate in the dividend.

A very pessimistic attitude seems to be adopted at the present time in motor manufacturing circles with regard to the outlook for motor shares (says the Morning Post), and this attitude is certainly reflected in the prices of the shares of many motor manufacturing concerns, more especially in the case of those which have made large new issues for the purposes of post-war developments. The depreciation in some cases is no worse than that which has occurred in the case of general investment securities, as for instance Wolseley Motors 6½ per cent. First Debentures, in which company the controlling interest is held by Vickers (Limited). This debenture stock has depreciated to about 80. It is when we come to such shares as Cubitts Engineering, Harper Bean, and the recent Austin 10 per cent. Preferred Ordinary Shares that investors are faced with very heavy depreciation. All these companies laid themselves out, as British manufacturers have so often been urged to do, for standardised production and large output. Neither Cubitts Engineering nor Harper Bean have yet paid any dividends on either Ordinary or Preference Shares, while in the case of the Austin 10 per cent. Preferred Ordinary no dividend is due until March of next year under the terms of the issue. In the case of the Austin shares there is a rather curious anomaly, for Austin Ordinary Shares are quoted nearly 2s. higher than the 10 per cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Ordinary, which rank in front of them.

A telegram, dated September 20, from Amsterdam, says that a director of the Bataafsche Petroleum and Royal Dutch Companies has declared that he believes that the removal of the Shell Company to Holland has not yet been seriously considered, but that, if this should happen, properties at the Hague are already at the disposal of the company. The Dutch Treasury would profit from the removal, and the Shell Company would not have to pay the high British taxes. Moreover, the connection between London and Holland would become narrower.

WALFORD LINES.

SUCCESS OF FIRST YEAR'S WORKING.

The first annual general meeting of Walford Lines, Ltd., was held yesterday at Winchester House, Old Broad street, London, E.C.—Mr. G. P. Walford, the Chairman of the company, presiding.

The Secretary (Mr. T. H. Wagstaffe) having read the notice convening the meeting and the report of the auditors,

The Chairman said—You have all received copies of the balance sheet and directors' report, and, if everybody is agreeable, we will take these as read. When I had the pleasure of meeting you a few months ago at our extraordinary general meeting, I expressed the hope that the accounts could have been submitted to you at an earlier date, but the Board have considered it preferable to hold this meeting at a date subsequent to the date of payment of the last call on the new shares, as these shares will be participating in the distribution of dividend submitted for your approval.

You will have noticed that the end of our first financial year has occurred at a date when the purchase agreement of the John Morrison Line was still in process of fulfilment. It has, therefore, been impossible to bring into the balance sheet submitted any figures referring to the latter company, and I will refer later to the progress of the John Morrison Line. However, the accounts submitted include income from the Entente Steamship Company, Ltd.—the two steamers of which are run in our regular service.

The profit on steamers trading, etc., after providing for all working expenses and maintenance of vessels, amounts to £167,073 4s. 7d., and, after making provision for the items specified in the directors' report, there remains a balance of £128,626 0s. 9d. The interim dividend paid on the 30th March last, together with the proposed final dividend, absorbs £51,539, leaving an amount of £77,086 5s. 9d. to meet all Government taxation and to permit of a substantial balance being carried forward to next year's account. I think you will agree that these accounts show a very satisfactory result of the first year's trading of the company, and it is not necessary for us to add very much to the information contained in the report.

SINKING FUND FOR DEPRECIATION.

Turning to the balance sheet, I think that the first question that all shipping companies should bear in mind is that of providing adequate sinking funds towards depreciation of their fleets. Although it is quite true that since the last six months second-hand tonnage has been changing hands at reduced prices, the cost of building new ships has, on the contrary, if anything, increased, and it appears to me that the fact of owners being unable to replace old tonnage at anything near the price obtainable for their old ships must of a necessity have the tendency of maintaining prices. We must also bear in mind that there are still trading at present a great number of ships which in normal times would have been broken up. I would call your attention to the fact that the "slump in freights" has affected to a much greater degree the owners of tramp steamers than it has affected the owners of regular lines. The tramp steamer depends upon all sorts of eventualities to which owners of boats having a regular trade such as ours are not subjected. The restricted exportation of coal to foreign countries has materially affected the position of tramp steamers, as they have to depend entirely on the homeward freight to make both ends meet. I do not think, however, that too gloomy a view should be taken of the position even by owners of tramp steamers. Continental countries will require coal, and if they cannot get the coal from England they will get it from America, from India, from Africa, and possibly from Japan, and, of course, this will give employment to a very large tonnage and help to maintain freights all round. I would point out here that nearly all the steamers of the Walford Lines are new and employed between fixed ports, and we have many years before us for the purpose of depreciation. Bearing in mind that the earliest date on which any of your steamers came into operation was on June 5, 1919, and the remainder on varying dates up to December, 1919, I feel sure you will agree that 11 per cent., to cover the period up to 30th April, 1920, is an ample provision made in respect of depreciation.

HEAVY BURDEN OF TAXATION.

When I addressed you on the 31st March it was at that time the general belief, based on statements formerly made by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, that the E.P.D. would be either considerably reduced or entirely eliminated from the Budget, then shortly to be introduced; but, unfortunately, events have proved otherwise, for we now find ourselves faced with an increased rate of E.P.D.—viz., 60 per cent.—as well as the corporation profits tax, both of which levies are in addition to the usual income tax, and consequently the State is taking a share of the company's profits which your Board expected would be available for dividend, and to strengthen the funds of the company. May I express the hope that the E.P.D., which presses with such undue severity upon a new company such as yours, may soon be discontinued. Your company's regular lines are practically public services, facilitating the export and exchanges of commodities between this country and the Continent, and, as such, far from being mulcted by the revenue authorities, it should be allowed to put aside a reasonable proportion of its revenue to provide for future expansion, and to strengthen its position as a competitor in the Continental carrying trade as against lines running under a foreign flag. Notwithstanding the present depression, I am pleased to say that the general trading results of your steamers have been, and are at the present time, very satisfactory, which bears out what I have pointed out on a previous occasion—that our prosperity depends more on the volume of trade and interchange of commodities between the United Kingdom and the Continent than on the strength of the general freight market. For the first four months of the company's existence business was mainly carried on by chartered tonnage, with a resulting smaller margin of profit than if vessels had been owned by the company, but during the period under review your company have had 671 sailings from United Kingdom ports, and have carried out and home 314,752 tons of general cargo. From the 1st of May up to the end of July this year outward sailings have numbered 193 and cargo 83,564 tons.

REGULAR SAILINGS.

We are now running a regular boat per week on the following services:—London to Dunkirk and Ghent; London to Rotterdam; London to Dieppe and Fecamp; London to Havre and Honfleur; Liverpool and Manchester to Antwerp; Liverpool and Manchester to Rotterdam; Liverpool and Manchester to Dunkirk; Goole to Treport. And we have three sailings a week from London to Boulogne and vice versa. We are also carrying out a service in conjunction with the Anglo-Polish Steamship Line between Liverpool and London and Continental ports to Danzig, with profitable results. We now enjoy the full benefit of the combination with the John Harrison Line, which gives us the control of 29 steamers, with the early prospect of obtaining the further two steamers now building. The date of delivery of these two boats has, unfortunately, been somewhat delayed. To carry on our numerous services we have supplemented your company's tonnage with chartered steamers as and when required.

PURCHASE OF HARRISON LINE.

The purchase of the John Harrison Line has, as we anticipated, enabled us to effect numerous economies, and we have been able to increase our sailings to and from the ports we serve, and also to establish fresh regular services. With the exception of two ships which are running on profitable time charters entered into previous to the purchase, all the vessels of the John Harrison Line are engaged in their own services between the United Kingdom and the Continent. Their services between the Unitd Kingdom and Trport and London to Antwerp (three boats weekly) have been carried out in an especially satisfactory way, and provide exceptional facilities to shippers for the prompt and efficient conveyance of through traffic to European centres. At the beginning of this year several of Messrs. John Harrison's steamers were still under requisition, or engaged in other trades, but from the 1st of January to the 31st July they carried out, with available ships, 266 voyages outwards from the United Kingdom, and they are gradually re-establishing their regular services between London, Manchester, Swansea, Newport, Whitehaven, Barrow, Workington, Liverpool, Bristol, Belfast, and Treport, and the general results up to date are very satisfactory. The fleet of motor lorries owned by the John Harrison Line has been increased, and is giving efficient and valuable service and profitable results, and it is intended to further develop this branch of the company's business.

THE DIVIDEND.

I will now come to the quotation of the dividend of 6d. per "A" Share, and proportionate dividend on the "B" Shares, which the directors recommend, and submit for your approval. I think that you will agree that the indications which I gave you at the extraordinary general meeting in regard to earnings of the company have been fully justified. The final dividend which is now proposed will bring up the total for the year to 2s. per share, less income tax, and I think it only right to draw your attention to the fact that, although this works out at 10 per cent. on the "A" capital, if you take into consideration the dates at which the respective calls were paid the yield is very much greater. Your company's Debenture issue now stands at £400,000, the £80,000 Debentures first issued and appearing in the balance sheet submitted having been absorbed therein. Your directors have made application to the Stock Exchange for the purpose of obtaining an official quotation of your shares and Debentures, which has been favourably considered, subject to certain formal alterations in the Articles of Association, which will be submitted for your approval at the extraordinary general meeting to be held on the conclusion of this meeting. As you know, our last issue was made under very adverse conditions, and the number of shares taken up, although somewhat under our expectations, was, however, quite sufficient to enable your Board to complete the deal with Messrs. John Harrison. The "A" share capital issued now stands at £599,272.

Before concluding, I would like to say a few words to recognise the very efficient services of the captains, officers, and crews of your steamers, also to commend the way in which the staff and the agents of our managers, Messrs. Leopold Walford (London), Ltd., and of the John Harrison Line (who have all been retained in your company's service) have carried out their duties, and you will all appreciate that it is in a great measure due to their incessant efforts and intelligent activity that the satisfactory results disclosed in our balance sheet have been obtained.

I think that I have now dealt with all matters of interest, and I venture to hope that the policy of your Board will meet with your full approval, but before proposing the necessary resolutions I shall be pleased to reply to questions which any shareholders may care to ask, or to give any further information you may desire.

I now propose that the directors' report and accounts for the year ended 30th April, 1920, as submitted to this meeting, be, and they are hereby, received and adopted, and that a dividend of 6d. per share less income tax be paid on each of the "A" Shares, and 6d. per share less income tax to be paid on each of the "B" Shares, and I will call upon Mr. E. Caillard to second this. In accordance with the Articles of Association, one-third of the number of directors retire. These are Mr. Esmond Caillard, Mr. L. H. G. Walford, and Mr. G. P. Walford, who, all being eligible, offer themselves for re-election. If a shareholder will therefore be good enough to propose that they be re-elected, and another shareholder to second, I shall have pleasure in submitting same to the meeting.

Mr. Esmond Caillard seconded the resolution, and it was carried unanimously.

Sir Harry Foster proposed the re-election of the retiring directors, Mr. E. Caillard, Mr. L. H. G. Walford, and Mr. G. P. Walford.

Mr. H. W. Hawkings seconded the motion, which was unanimously agreed to.

On the proposition of Mr. Barker, seconded by Mr. T. Edwards, Messrs. Kemp, Sons, Sendell and Co., Chartered Accountants, were re-appointed auditors of the company for the current year.

An extraordinary general meeting was subsequently held, at which certain formal alterations were made in the Articles of Association in order to meet the requirements of the Stock Exchange Committee prior to permission being granted by them for a quotation of the company's shares and debentures.

On the motion of Mr. Hawkings, a cordial vote of thanks was passed to the Chairman, and the proceedings then terminated.

MARKET REPORTS.

CATTLE.—LONDON, Monday.—Larger supply of fat cattle, consisting of shorthorns and Herefords from the midland counties, a few Devons, and 44 beasts from Dublin. Trade ruled slow, with a downward tendency in values in some cases, although prices on the average were not quotably lower. A few Leicestershire sorts of secondary quality made 12/6 per 8lbs., while the Irish cattle sold at last week's rates. Average dead weight quotations per 8lbs.:—Shorthorns—First quality 13/2, second quality 12/8; Hereford—First quality 13/4, second quality 12/10; Devons—First quality 13/4, second quality 13/-. Sheep and lambs consisted of animals from Lincolnshire, the Midlands, and Kent, with about 180 Scotch. Trade was very slow, but recent rates were about maintained, small Downs and Scotch sheep realising 27d. and lambs 30d. per lb. Average quotations per lb.:—Downs—First quality 27d., second quality 24d., third quality 22d.; longwools—First quality 24d., second quality 22d.; crossbreds—First quality 26d., second quality 23d.; lambs—First quality 30d., second quality 28d. The few calves on offer sold at last week's rates of 20d. to 23d. per lb. Numbers in the market:—Cattle, 764; sheep and lambs, 2,227; calves, 27.

BIRKENHEAD, Monday.—Larger supply of cattle on offer, and, with fewer buyers in attendance, trade ruled dull. All classes were sold at reduced values. Best bullocks and heifers made 1/5¼ per lb., other sorts proportionately lower. For sheep and lambs a ready sale was experienced. Lambs made up to 2/4 per lb., and small sheep 1/10, sinking the offal. At market—1,378 cattle, and 3,536 sheep and lambs. At the dressed beef section supplies were adequate, and a fair trade prevailed, at rates ranging from 1/3¼ to 1/4½ per lb.

HULL, Monday.—Large show beef; fair trade. Best beef, 1/6 to 1/7; cows, 1/4 to 1/5 lb. Sheep dear; young, 2/2; ewes, 1/10; young pigs, 30/-; store, medium, 28/-; sows 26/-.

HEGARTY AND KELLY'S REPORT.—GLASGOW, Monday.—Smaller show of Irish cattle in Glasgow market to-day. Top quality bullocks and heifers made recent currencies. Rough and secondary cattle were a slow trade, and less money. Bulls and cows a light supply, and no dearer. Sheep and lambs in keen demand, higher prices.—(Advt.)

Lever's Palm Nut Cake and Meal, Pig Meal.—Agent, W. Rourke, 36 North Circular road, Dublin.—(Advt.)

GRAIN.—FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES—BALTIC, Monday—WHEAT—Allocations comprised Australian parcels to London at 96/- per 480lbs. MAIZE quiet, steady in value. Cargoes of Plate afloat and loading sellers 73/-, Sept.-Oct. 72/6, Oct.-Nov. 72/-. Parcels slow. Plate afloat sellers at 71/3, Aug.-Sept. 68/9, Sept.-Oct. 67/9 per 480lbs. BARLEY quiet. Californian afloat sellers 100/-, Sept.-Oct. 94/-, Oct.-Nov. 93/- per 448lbs. No. 3 Canada Western Oct.-Nov. 79/-, No. 4 ditto 66/6, Plate Sept.-Oct. 71/- per 400lbs. OATS quiet. No. 2 Canada Western Oct.-Nov. sellers 54/3, No. 3 ditto 54/-, No. 3 Ontario Oct.-Nov. 53/6, Plate f.a.q. Oct.-Nov. 50/9 per 320lbs.

MARK LANE, Monday.—English WHEAT in steady demand; whites 90/-96/-, reds 90/-96/-. No. 1 Northern Manitoba 100/6 ex ship, No. 2 ditto 99/6 ex ship, No. 3 ditto 98/6 ex ship. Australian spot 104/9, No. 2 red winter 98/6, Argentine 98/7½. FLOUR firmer. Canadian 86/6-88/3, American 86/6-88/3, English G.R. 86/- ex mill, Australian patents 86/6-88/3. GRINDING BARLEY quiet. English 78/-80/-, Californian 100/- ex ship, Canadian No. 4 73/- ex ship, 75/6 landed. OATS quiet. English 58/-68/-, Canadian 66/- landed, Plate 53/- landed, Norwegian 67/- landed. MAIZE firm. Plate, old 73/6, new 77/6 landed.

LIVERPOOL, Monday.—C.i.f. parcels of WHEAT were neglected. MAIZE parcels River Plate were about 1/- per qr. lower, 67/- being accepted for September-October shipment, while on passage, per Swinburne, 73/- was taken, and 72/- per qr. per Thessaly. Wheat on the spot was quietly steady at late rates. Maize—Spot parcels were more or less nominal, with old crop screened River Plate quoted 16/11 to 17/- and new 17/2 to 17/3 per cental. FLOUR less active, owing to the advance of 22/6 per 280lbs., which comes into operation to-day. Stocks of imported flour held by the Landed Grain Committee at Liverpool on September 17th were 12,191 tons. No. 2 Canada Western OATS, October-November, realised 54/- per qr. Yellow River Plate maize futures gradually gave way, and closed quiet at 1½d. to 3d. per cental under Saturday. Sales—25 loads at 15/2½ to 15/1½ for October, and 14/5 to 14/3½ for December delivery. Closing values:—September nominal, October 15/1½, December 14/3½ per cental.

PROVISIONS.—DUBLIN VEGETABLE, Monday.—Only a few oddments of stuff on this market, nothing being of a quotable nature.

LONDON, Monday.—BUTTER—Market without new feature. Imports from Denmark have ceased for the present, but a new contract has been arranged, while certain quantities are available for export from Holland. Finest Danish at control prices. Control prices, 303/4 per cwt. wholesale, and 3/- per lb. retail. Canadian, New Zealand, and Argentine all at control prices. CHEESE—English slow, though supplies of factory kinds are less freely offered. Canadian dull. ... New Zealand—Control prices, 1/8 per lb. wholesale, 1/9 per lb. retail. Finest Cheshire 176/-187/-, finest Cheddar 176/-187/-, finest Cheddar loaf 187/-200/-; Irish Cheddar 155/-160/-, secondary 102/-130/-. BACON—Best goods in steady demand, but stale lots slow. Larger quantities from Denmark are expected in the near future. Irish 280/- ex factory, Danish 208/-, Canadian 203/-, American Cumberland cut 188/6-192/-, bellies, box 191/-208/-, American Wiltshire 185/-192/-, American back rib 212/-, American Canadian cured 203/-. HAMS—English in active demand at full rates. American sparingly offered. English 3/6 per lb. Canadian long cut 218/-, ditto short cut 218/-. American short cut 218/-, ditto short cut 218/-. Shoulders, square 162/-, New York 146/-, picnics 100/-. LARD—American in good demand for best lots. Irish 162/- ex factory, American 156/6. EGGS—Market remains steady, quiet. English new laid 43/-45/-, Irish 32/-40/-, Danish, 18lbs. 41/6-42/-, 17lbs. 39/-40/6, 16lbs. 38/6-40/-, Canadian, 35/-36/-; Chinese, 31/-32/-.

LIVERPOOL, Monday.—Practically no arrivals are entered at this port, and with no further allotment stocks of fresh parcels of BACON generally in the hands of importers are on the short side, though about equal to present requirements. A moderate demand is experienced for fresh American Wiltshires, though under-priced lots neglected, with supply of Cumberlands and bellies limited, and in request, low grades remain being taken. Canadian Wiltshires are fairly active, and Irish and Danish scarce, with a good demand, especially for the latter. HAMS meet a good inquiry, especially when obtainable without a proportion of bacon in conjunction. Shoulders are generally quiet, though a fair inquiry is experienced for fresh squares. LARD on the spot moves fairly, chiefly American refined, and supplies are generally equal to requirements. CHEESE is in fair demand for controlled at 1/5¼ per lb., delivered to retailers, but Cheshire attracts little attention, at 1/7½ to 1/8½ per lb. Free Canadian is quiet at 160/- to 162/- for white, and 164/- to 165/- per cwt. for coloured. BUTTER is firm, and the limited offerings find ready acceptance. EGGS move moderately at 38/- to 39/- for Irish, and 38/6 to 39/- per 120 for Canadian.

DUBLIN FISH, Monday.—Fair offerings of fish on market, and a good demand for everything; 6 chests of lobsters, 50 packages herrings, 50 of mackerel arrived, with a small quantity of stuff from local and country hookers and wind trawlers. Large lobsters made 15/- to 25/-; seconds, 10/- to 12/-, and small and dead sorts, 6/- to 8/- per 13; large soles, 40/- to 45/-; medium, 20/- to 25/-, and slips, 10/- to 15/- per 9 pairs; large plaice, 4/- to 6/- per 4; medium, 3/- to 4/- per 8; turbot, 5/- to 20/- each; brill, 1/- to 6/- each; plaice, 40/- to 80/- per half-box; ray, 10/- to 20/- per ditto; herrings averaged 20/- to 30/- per box, and mackerel, 6/- to 10/- per ditto.

BILLINGSGATE FISH, Monday.—Supply fair; demand good. Salmon, 42d. to 45d.; salmon trout, 16d. to 30d.; soles, 16d. to 19d.; slips, 20d. per lb.; turbot 9/- to 12/-; brill, 8/- to 11/-; plaice, 10/- to 13/-; halibut, 13/- to 15/-; lemon soles, 15/-; whitches, 8/- to 9/-; megrims, 4/-; cod, 6/- to 7/-; mackerel, 5/-; hake, 8/- to 10/-; haddock, 4/- to 6/-; gurnet, 4/-; bream, 3/- per stone.

GRIMSBY FISH, Monday.—A big supply from 58 North Sea, one Faroe, two Iceland trawlers, and three codmen; good demand. Cod, 6/- to 7/-; hake, 9/6; dabs, 8/- to 9/-; best plaice, 12/-; lemon soles, 15/- to 16/-; halibuts, 14/-; whitings and small haddocks, 5/-; mackerel, 4/-; gibbed haddocks, 6/- to 7/-; kit haddocks, 6/- per stone; soles, 2/-; turbot and brills, 1/- per lb.

Mutton—Scotch wethers, 15/4 to 16/8; English, 13/8 to 16/-; ewes, both, 9/4 to 12/-; imported, 4/- to 6/-. Lamb—English and Scotch, 15/4 to 17/4; imported, 8/8. Veal—English, 9/4 to 14/-. Pork—English and Irish, both, 12/8 to 16/8; imported frozen, 12/8.

BUTTER.—CORK, Monday.—Firsts, 324/-; fresh butter, 341/- per cwt.

PRODUCE.—LONDON, Monday.—SUGAR steady, but general trade quiet regarding free parcels. COFFEE—Spot market steady for desirable home trade qualities, but export kinds slow; futures quiet, steady; December quoted 60/3, March 60/- per cwt. TEA—Indian sales of 26,000 packages attracted increased support, and steady to firmer prices, while some new season's Darjeelings and Assams sold well; Pekoe sold 4½d. to 1/4½, broken ditto 6½d. to 1/10½, orange 5½d. to 1/9½, broken orange 7½d., with fine up to 2/9½; Pekoe Souchong 4d. to 11½d. per lb. in bond. RICE—Market steady, with demand distinctly quieter. Rangoon BRAN quiet. SPICE—Pepper market slow; fair black Singapore spot 7d., October-December 6½d., Aleppy spot 7½d. sellers, Tellicherry 8d., white Singapore 1/2½, Muntok ditto 1/3½, October-December 1/1½. Zanzibar cloves—Spot 1/8. Pimento 4d. FLAKE TAPIOCA—2½d. per lb. SAGO FLOUR—September-November 22/3, Farina ditto 31/-; desiccated cocoanut fine cut spot 83/6, medium 92/6 per cwt., coarse scarce. JUTE—With very few offers from Calcutta, and sellers of secured parcels adopting marked reserve, the market ruled strong at a further material advance in prices, while a good steady inquiry was experienced from both home and near Continental spinners; native first marks assortment old crop substitutes September-October usual ports sold £46, ditto new crop actuals September-October £56, Daisee No. 2 association group of actuals September-October £52 to £53. Calcutta hessians firm; 10oz. spot 51/6, 8oz. ditto 41/6 per 100 yards; A twills spot 125/-, E ditto 112/-, D.W. salts sold 100/-, and sugars at 125/- per 100 bags. HEMP—Manila steady, quiet; J grade August-October value £68 10/-, K £58 10/- per ton; New Zealand dull, unaltered; Italian idle in the London market. SHELLAC—Market firm, quiet; sundried Straits October-December London sold £58, Ceylon ditto sellers £59, F.M. Straits October-December Marseilles £56. PALM KERNELS—October-December £40 5/- sellers per ton. RUBBER remained dull; crepe spot sold 1/6½, October 1/6¾, October-December 1/7, January-March 1/8½, January-June 1/9½, sheet spot sold 1/5, October-December 1/5½ to 1/5¾, January-March 1/7½, fine hard Para spot 1/7½ per lb. OILS—Linseed firm; spot 82/-, September-December 80/3, January-April 78/6. China wood firm; Hankow spot 109/-, Hong Kong 105/6. Palm kernel—Spot crushed 80/-, extracted 79/-. Soya—October-December 73/-. Turpentine steadier; American spot 146/6, October-December 148/-, January-April 152/6 per cwt. Others unaltered. OILSEEDS—Linseed ruled firm, with a fair inquiry; Calcutta September-October sold £40 10/-, Bombay ditto quoted £41 15/-, Plate September-October £38 15/-, January-February sold £35 15/-, February-March £35 10/-. Rapeseed firm; Toria September-October quoted £36 10/-, real bold Ferozepore £35 10/-, and brown Cawnpore £33. Cottonseed quiet, owing to lateness of cables; Egyptian f.a.q. September-October quoted £19 10/-, Bombay ditto £14 10/- per ton. LINSEED CAKES—The demand continues fairly active, both in spot and forward positions, and foreign in consequence are firmly held up, and c.i.f. quotations of all foreign descriptions come to hand at fully 10/- per ton more money, to-day's nearest quotations being £23 per ton for English, £22 per ton for fine quality Argentine, and £21 per ton for American. Cotton cakes—Egyptians do not offer on spot, while in London make command full prices of £13 15/- for Egyptian seed, and £12 per ton for Bombay seed, with some further business in October-December Egyptian made reported £12 12/6 to £12 15/- per ton ex ship terms. Cocoanut cake—Foreign descriptions are again dearer, and parcels in warehouse make £14 per ton, while English makes are only sparingly offered at £15 per ton. Rice meal—Finest quality Egyptian in warehouse finds buyers at £15 per ton, with sellers of Rangoon at £13 10/- per ton. Maize foods—Garton's maize gluten feed and Watney's maize feed continue to find a ready market, and are the turn dearer. Garton's maize germ meal moves off steadily at £18 per ton, while some white American has changed hands at £20 per ton. Sugar foods—Hughes' patent molascuit and molassine meal are without alteration at £15 per ton. Best cane cattle feeding treacle is held for rather more money at £13 10/- per ton in 6cwt. casks.

WOOL.—BRADFORD, Monday.—Business very quiet, in view of the approaching test of wool values in London to-morrow. Topmakers show little change in quotations, but the tendency is in buyers' favour. Yarn business has fallen off considerably, and spinners are prepared to meet buyers if there is a prospect of business. Users all round are buying only for urgent requirements.

LONDON METALS MARKET.

The market for TIN opened firmer, but on some cessation in demand and larger offers a reaction set in. Cash ruled 35/- to 40/- lower, also forward, as compared with Friday's close. Cash quoted £275 to £275 10/-, three months £279 10/- to £280. Settlement price £275. Sales, 550 tons; cash at £278 10/- down to £275, October dates at £280 to £281, but later £278 10/-, three months £283 to £283 10/- and finally £280. COPPER—Market quite idle, and rates 10/- to 20/- per ton down on balance. Cash quoted £98 to £98 10/-, and three months also at £98 to £98 10/-. Settlement price £98. Sales, 150 tons; Nov.-Dec. and also three months at £98. Electros £112 to £118. LEAD easier. Sales, 900 tons; Sept.-Oct. £36 to £35 10/-, Dec. £36, Jan. £35 10/-. SPELTER steadier. Sales, 800 tons; Dec. £41 to £41 5/- per ton. TINPLATES steady, quiet.

LONDON FREIGHTS—Monday.

The demand for homeward tonnage is fairly well maintained, and rates ruled firm in all directions, while tonnage is by no means freely offered at the moment. River Plate section quiet, but rates fully steady, especially for early loading. Assisted by a good consumptive demand for maize in this country, cargoes of this grain up river loading prompt to U.K. quoted at 110/-, October 105/-; with option part seeds at about 7/6 per ton extra. North American markets fully steady but quiet. New York sugar rules at 17 dollars per ton West Italy. Although business in American coals has been rather more subdued, a fair number of orders are in circulation from South America and Europe, and late rates are generally maintained. Eastern markets firm, with rather more inquiry. Bombay on dead weight maintained at 80/- to U.K. Saigon rice indicates 115/-. Mediterranean.—Australia dull for grain. Outward coal business from Welsh ports was on a limited scale, and, with ample tonnage supplies on offer, an easy tendency was apparent. Coasting rates about unaltered. Fixtures—Wartburg 5,500 tons, American Northern range ports to Marseilles and September 15, dollars, coal; steamer, ditto, to Mediterranean, excluding Spain, October 14½ dollars, coal; steamers (two) Hampton Roads to River Plate October 14½ dollars, coal.

WESTMEATH COUNTY COMMITTEE AND TILLAGE.

Westmeath County Committee of Agriculture and Technical Instruction yesterday adopted a resolution asking Dail Eireann to issue regulations requiring tillage to be carried out on the same basis as under the Tillage Orders in operation during the war. Some of the land tilled under these Orders had again gone back to grass, and the production of home-grown food was of vital importance.

Mr. Thomas W. McIntyre, for many years a partner with Sir Joseph Maclay, Shipping Controller, in the firm of Maclay and McIntyre, shipowners, Glasgow, died at Corn Castle, Ayrshire, yesterday. He thrice unsuccessfully contested Parliamentary seats in the Unionist interest in Scotland.

PROPERTY PROBLEMS

Never before has property been so valuable as it is to-day. Maintain it by painting. Use S.W.P. (Sherwin-Williams Prepared Paint). It covers more, lasts longer, and gives real protection. Look for the "Covers the Earth" trade mark on the can.
